About the Contributors

Mark I. Choate, Ph.D., is currently a faculty member of the BYU History Department. He began his undergraduate studies at the University of Oklahoma, and received his B.A. magna cum laude, M.A., M.Phil., and Ph.D. in history from Yale. Mark's dissertation on Italian colonialism and migration was awarded Yale's Hans Gatzke Prize for an outstanding dissertation in European history, and he is currently working on revising it into a book. A paper he presented in August 2001 at the International Conference of Historical Geographers in Quebec was awarded the Andrew Hill Clark Prize by the American Academy of Geographers, Historical Geography Specialty Group, for the best conference paper written at the doctoral level. Mark presented a paper at the AHA Annual Meeting in January 2002, and will return to the AHA Meeting in 2003 to present a paper in the Italian Historical Society panel. He also has an article forthcoming in the journal Modern Italy. Professor Choate teaches courses in the history of Europe since 1914, modern Italy, fascism, colonialism, migration, and world civilizations since 1500.

Keith A. Erekson, M.A., is currently a Ph.D. candidate at Indiana University, where he is studying American history. He received an M.A. in history from Brigham Young University. He has contributed to BYU Studies and Mormon Historical Studies, and is the author of Teaching Family History: A Resource Guide for Family History Teachers.

Gerald M. Haslam, Ph.D., AG, is the Coordinator for Family History at Brigham Young University and Associate Director of the Center for Family History and Genealogy (CFHG) there. His NFS Grundtvig's Faedrearnav (1783-1815), University of Aarhus, Denmark: Faculty of Theology, 1998, pp. 425, is an in-depth comparison of the theology of the famous "folk churchman" and Danish patriot Grundtvig with that of his father, likewise a Lutheran minister.

George R. Ryskamp, J.D., AG, is an Associate Professor of History at Brigham Young University and Accredited Genealogist, specializing in Spanish-language research and United States probate and legal systems. He is the author of numerous books and articles, former Coeditor of the Genealogical Journal and a regular lecturer at national and international conferences.

Kip Sperry, CG, CGI, AG, FASG, FNGS, FUGA, is an Associate Professor of Church History and Doctrine (family history), Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah. He is a contributing editor to National Genealogical Society Quarterly and The American Genealogist. He is the author of numerous books and of an online genealogy column, "Kip's Tips".

Richard E. Turley Jr. is the managing director of the Family and Church History Department of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and president of the Genealogical Society of Utah. At Brigham Young University, he serves on the Family History Coordinating Council and on the Executive Committee of the Joseph Fielding Smith Institute for Latter-day Saint History.
