British Library Colloquium on Resources for Japanese Studies, September 1988

The British Library is continuing its series of forums providing opportunities for librarians, information scientists, curators, and scholars from the United Kingdom and overseas to exchange views on matters of common interest and concern in Oriental Studies. This colloquium, the third in the series, will be concerned with Resources for Japanese Studies and consists of papers presenting an overview of resources for Japanese studies on the first day, reports on printing, publishing, and the art of the Japanese book on the second day, and discussions on automation and cooperation on the third day.

The cosponsors are the Japan Foundation, the School of Oriental and African Studies of the University of London, and the Japan Library Group. The program will take place September 14 to 16, 1988. There is no fee charged for attending the colloquium.

For further information please contact Mrs. Yu-Ying Brown, Secretary to the Colloquium and Head of the Japanese Section, Oriental Collections, British Library, 14 Store Street, London WC1E 7DG. Telephone: 01-323-7652/7662. Telex: 21426. Fax: 01-323-7641.

Photoduplicate copies of the program outline, general notes, list of hotels near the site of the Colloquium, accommodation arrangements at Connaught Hall, and a map of the vicinity of London where the Colloquium will be held are available from Edward Martinique, Chairperson, Subcommittee on Publications, CB# 3918, Davis Library, University of North Carolina - CH, Chapel Hill, NC 27599.
