Intuition: BYU Undergraduate Journal of Psychology, is published annually during the Fall Semester by the Brigham Young University Psychology Department.

Intuition is managed, edited, and designed by undergraduate students enrolled at Brigham Young University. Individuals who are interested in joining the staff are encouraged to contact the Editor-in-Chief at byupsychjournal@gmail.com. Class credit is available for staff members. Individuals interested in submitting articles to be considered for publication should read the submission guidelines located on the last page of the current issue.

Articles and other content in this issue do not necessarily represent the views or opinions of Brigham Young University, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, or Intuition editors. Any comments should be directed to the Editor-in-Chief, 1001 SWKT, BYU, Provo, UT, 84602, or e-mail: byupsychjournal@gmail.com.

Intuition would especially like to thank Julianne Holt-Lunstad for his guidance in developing this journal. The efforts of Mel Thorne, Linda Hunter Adams, and the Psychology Department faculty members who generously provided reviews are likewise appreciated.

From the Editor

Paige N. Vella

This year’s successful issue of the journal was accomplished after overcoming many obstacles. We experienced almost a complete change of staff, not to mention a change in the editor-in-chief. Consequently, the journal went through almost complete reorganization, and the new staff members had to be trained to work on the project. With the help of the old staff, the new staff, and many of the faculty, we were able to complete the project and present you with the newest issue of BYU’s very own Undergraduate Journal of Psychology, Intuition.

I would like to thank all the staff members, both of the old staff and the new, who gave their time to work on the journal. We had some students who were able to dedicate their time to work on the journal for their capstone credit, and we had others who simply wanted the experience and donated their free time to help with the journal.

I would like to give a special thanks to McKay A. Young who started out as the editor-in-chief on the staff at the beginning of the year. He spent countless hours on the project to improve the system of reviewing articles, and tried to make working on the journal a worthwhile experience to those who were serving on the staff.

I would also like to thank the faculty who donated their time and effort to the journal. We realize that the faculty members are often very busy with their own projects and classes, and we appreciate the time that they take out of their schedules to help us out.

I especially would like to thank Dr. Julianne Holt-Lunstad who was the advisor for the journal this year. Her support and insight have helped us to improve the journal beyond what we may have been able to do ourselves. Working with her was a very enjoyable experience.

Finally, I would like to thank the authors for their efforts in the reviewing process and for their patience with the change of staff. We hope that they, as well as everyone else, enjoy this issue of Intuition.
