ALLEN D. BRECK
AWARD WINNER

2004

Jennifer McNabb

The Allen D. Breck Award is given in honor of Professor Allen D. Breck, founder of the Rocky Mountain Medieval and Renaissance Association. As Professor of History at the University of Denver, he served for 20 years as department chair. As Professor Emeritus he became the university's historian, writing From the Rockies to the World—The History of the University of Denver. Professor Breck's scholarly interests focused on medieval and church history, particularly John Wycliffe. He also taught Anglican studies at the Hiff School of Theology, and wrote, edited, or contributed to the history of Jews, Methodists, and Episcopalians in Colorado as well as books on medieval philosophy, the lives of western leaders, and the relationships between science, history, and philosophy. In addition to his involvement with the Rocky Mountain Medieval and Renaissance Association, he was a fellow of the Royal Historical Society, and was a member of the Medieval Academy of America, the Western History Association, and the Western Social Science Association.

The Allen D. Breck Award recognizes the most distinguished paper given by a junior scholar at the annual conference.
