The Diaries of Charles Ora Card: The Utah Years, 1871–1886

Edited by Donald G. Godfrey and Kenneth W. Godfrey

Charles Ora Card's diaries detail the pioneers' attempts to make the desert blossom as a rose, including their work on the Logan Temple and Tabernacle. During this era, the Church faced increasing economic and federal legislative pressures. The records accent the everyday struggles of a people; their leadership, both local and Churchwide; and Card's own capture by U.S. marshals.

Stewardship and the Creation: Latter-day Saint Perspectives

Edited by George B. Handley, Terry B. Ball, and Steven L. Peck

The essays in this book inspire members to consider carefully their own stewardships in caring for God's creations as well as to create dialogue and find common ground with those of other persuasions. The book reaffirms and develops what previous examinations of our theology and history have repeatedly demonstrated: our religion offers a vital perspective on, and a foundation for, effective environmental stewardship that encompasses the best impulses of both liberal generosity and conservative restraint.

Joseph Smith and the Doctrinal Restoration

“Joseph Smith, the Prophet and Seer of the Lord, has done more, save Jesus only, for the salvation of men in this world, than any other man that ever lived in it” (D&C 135:3). This Sperry Symposium volume focuses on truths restored through the Prophet Joseph Smith. It celebrates his 200th birthday and the 175th anniversary of the Church’s founding.

A Descriptive Bibliography of the Mormon Church, Vol. 2

Peter Crawley

On July 21, 1847, Orson Pratt and Erastus Snow, with one horse between them, paused at the mouth of Emigration Canyon and then made their way into the Great Salt Lake Valley—the first Latter-day Saints to walk on the land that would become their home. This volume tells the story of Latter-day

Saint publishing efforts as the Church settled Utah. It also features detailed descriptions of Orson Pratt’s missionary publications in England and the printed works of missionaries in France, Italy, Denmark, and the Pacific islands. Researchers, librarians, book collectors, and serious students of Mormonism will find this book a valuable reference guide to these early publications.

Pioneers in the Pacific: Memory, History, and Cultural Identity among the Latter-day Saints Edited by Grant Underwood

In this volume, President Gordon B. Hinckley tells inspiring stories of missionaries and members in Australia, Hawaii, New Zealand, Samoa, Tahiti, and Tonga. Elder Glen L. Rudd recalls serving with Matthew Cowley, the “Apostle of the Polynesians,” a man loved for his faith and kindness. Chieko N. Okazaki discusses the need for harmony between gospel principles and human culture. Groundbreaking chapters tell the history of Saints in the islands.

Fire on Ice: The Story of Icelandic Latter-day Saints at Home and Abroad

Fred E. Woods

How did the message of the restored gospel come to Iceland, the land of fire and ice? What made its converts so adventurous to make this lengthy Utah journey by sail, rail, and trail? What challenges did they encounter trying to assimilate into a western American culture? This book provides the answers.

Its publication marks a dual sesquicentennial commemoration: the arrival of the first Icelandic Latter-day Saints in Utah and the earliest settlement of Icelanders in the United States.

Sperry Symposium Classics: The Old Testament

Edited by Paul Y. Hoskisson

Explore the Old Testament as the original testament of the Savior's dealings with humanity. Topics include the law of Moses, the Abrahamic covenant, and the teachings of Isaiah and Elijah. Elder Russell M. Nelson, Robert L. Millet, and others offer scriptural insights in these classic Sperry Symposium addresses.

RELIGIOUS STUDIES CENTER
BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY

Religious Studies Center

Established in 1975 by BYU Religious Education Dean Jeffrey R. Holland, the Religious Studies Center (RSC) is the research arm of Religious Education at Brigham Young University. Since its inception, it has provided funding for numerous projects, including conferences, books, and articles relating to Latter-day Saint culture, history, scripture, and doctrine. The RSC endeavors to use its resources to, first, facilitate excellence in teaching the gospel of Jesus Christ; second, encourage research and publication that contribute to the mission of the university and its sponsoring institution, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints; and third, promote study and understanding of other cultures and religions.

Research and Publication

One of the primary aspects of the RSC's mission is to enhance understanding of revealed truths. The ultimate interpretation of doctrinal matters rests with the First Presidency and the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles; therefore, we seek to discover historical background, provide cultural and linguistic details, and explore new avenues of understanding into our faith, history, and way of life. Thus, research into scripture, Church history, and religious matters in general is an important part of what the full-time Religious Education faculty do. Because BYU is primarily a teaching institution, we recognize as our major thrust the classroom experience. We seek, however, to expand our classroom through the writing and publication of our research.

The RSC helps fund several meaningful projects each year and publishes books, articles, a newsletter, and the Religious Educator in helping to promote and disseminate Latter-day Saint research and thought. These publications enhance the libraries of Latter-day Saint readers and others who take an interest in the history or culture of the Latter-day Saints. The yearly application deadline for research funding is June 1. Please send inquiries to RSC at 370 JSB, BYU, Provo, UT 84602.

An Invitation to Join with Us

RSC research and publication projects are sustained by university funding and by financial donations from friends who want to encourage the kind of quality work the RSC does. We are thankful for the generosity of those who support our efforts to bring the best scholarship to light. If you would like to become a donor to the RSC to help its mission, please contact the RSC at 370 JSB, BYU, Provo, UT 84602.

The RSC restricts its publications to items that fit within the scholarly range of the curriculum and mission of Religious Education. It produces materials that are well written, rigorous, and original and that reflect the doctrine, the history, the teachings of the living prophets, and the standard works of the Restoration. It seeks works that meet academic needs or fill a niche in the area of faithful scholarship. It welcomes all materials that fit within these parameters.
