

2009

Contributors

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/thebridge>

 Part of the European History Commons, European Languages and Societies Commons, and the Regional Sociology Commons

Recommended Citation

(2009) "Contributors," The Bridge: Vol. 32 : No. 2 , Article 4.

Available at: <https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/thebridge/vol32/iss2/4>

This Front Matter is brought to you for free and open access by BYU ScholarsArchive. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Bridge by an authorized editor of BYU ScholarsArchive. For more information, please contact scholarsarchive@byu.edu, ellen_amatangelo@byu.edu.

Contributors to This Issue

Edward A. Hansen submitted his translation of his grandfather's autobiography to The Bridge in February of 2009 but died in Edina, Minnesota, on 1 August. His daughter, Lee Anne Lack, helped with final preparation of the manuscript for publication. Edward Hansen was a native of Harlan, Iowa, and a graduate of Dana College and Trinity Seminary in Blair. He served as a Bishop of the American Lutheran Church for eighteen years and was a member of the committee that produced the Lutheran Book of Worship in 1978.

Nana Mikkelsen took her B.A. degree in dramaturgy and museological studies at the University of Aarhus in 2007 and interned at Odder Museum in Denmark before coming to Hampton, Iowa, in 2008 to spend two months at the Harriman-Nielsen Heritage Farm, a subsidiary of the Franklin County Historical Society. At the conference, "Innovation—the Danish Way," in Minneapolis on 1-3 October 2009, Nana Mikkelsen reported on the project, and the article in this issue is her report. She is currently a graduate student at the University of Aarhus in Denmark.

Ken Baumgardt managed the field office of the archeological firm, MAAR Associates of Newark, Delaware, in the mid-1980's and participated in the investigations conducted during that period. He went on to be employed for eighteen years as a staff historian and archeologist of the Baltimore District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, where he continues to serve the cultural resource needs of that agency in the Middle Atlantic, as well as serving as a disaster first responder for the Corps Hurricane Response Team. A resident of historic Christiana, Delaware, he is active in the research and preservation of that town. He has recently published two books, Delaware Park: Winners, Losers and Longshots (Charleston SC: History Press 2008), and Scarlett's Buried Secret: The Forgotten Love Story behind 'Gone with the Wind' (Pittsburgh PA: Red Lead Press, 2009), and is completing a study of Biblical archeology entitled The Bible: Discovered! (Summerville SC: Holy Fire Publishing, 2010).

Contributors to This Issue

Edward A. Hansen submitted his translation of the manuscript of autobiography to The Bridge in February of 1999 but died in Lincoln, Minnesota on 1 August. His daughter, Jane Anne Hansen, is the author of the introduction to the publication. Edward Hansen was a native of Italian Iowa and a graduate of Iowa College and Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut. He served as a pastor of the American Lutheran Church in Hartford for eighteen years and was a member of the committee that produced the Lutheran Book of Worship in 1978.

Jane Anne Hansen took her B.A. degree in Journalism and Mass Communication at the University of Kansas in 2001 and then worked for the University of Kansas in Lawrence, Kansas. She interned at Cedar Rapids in Denmark before coming to Hartford, Iowa. In 2002 she spent two months at the Lutheran-Norwegian Heritage Fair, a subsidiary of the Franklin County Historical Society. At the same time, she was the Danish Day in Minneapolis on 13 October 2002. Jane Anne Hansen reported on the project and the article in this issue is her report on the project.

Ken Johnson is a graduate student at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville. He managed the field office of the Arkansas State Historical Society in Fayetteville, Arkansas, in the mid-1990s and participated in the investigation conducted during that period. He went on to be employed for eighteen years as a state historian and archeologist of the Baltimore District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, where he continues to serve the cultural resource needs of that district in the Middle Atlantic as well as serving as a manager and coordinator for the Corps Historic Response Team. A resident of historic Christiansburg, Delaware, he is active in the research and preservation of that town. He has recently published two books: Delaware's Last Frontier: Lewis and Clark and Christiana BC History 1783-1800 and Scotch-Irish: The Founding of the United States. He has also published Christiana BC: A History of the Town and Its People (Christiana BC and Lewis and Clark 1783-1800) and is completing a study of biblical archeology entitled The Bible and Archaeology: A Study of the Bible and Archaeology (2002).