

1997

Contributors

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/thebridge>

 Part of the European History Commons, European Languages and Societies Commons, and the Regional Sociology Commons

---

Recommended Citation

(1997) "Contributors," The Bridge: Vol. 20 : No. 2 , Article 4.

Available at: <https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/thebridge/vol20/iss2/4>

This Front Matter is brought to you for free and open access by BYU ScholarsArchive. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Bridge by an authorized editor of BYU ScholarsArchive. For more information, please contact scholarsarchive@byu.edu, ellen\_amatangelo@byu.edu.

Contributors To This Issue

Borge M. Christensen emigrated to the US in 1956 to work for General Electric Company as an electrical engineer. His career was international and on the leading edge of computers and communications technology. Presently retired in Tucson, Arizona he pursues an interest in nineteenth century Danish immigration to the United States.

Eva Maria Johnson was born in 1914, the sixth of eleven children of Danish immigrant parents. After her youth, included in the section we print here, she had a remarkable career with the National Youth administration and then with the American Red cross Clubmobilies in Europe during World War II. She married Ray Johnson and together they spent many years in South and Southeast Asia. Eva Johnson died in 1996 and her husband has given us permission to publish this section of her book.

Sybil Duus Needham has successfully provided us leads for possible articles for The Bridge in the past. She is presently a tour guide in Tucson, Arizona.

Rolf Buschardt Christensen is President of the Federation of Danish Associations in Canada.

Editorial Statement

This issue of The Bridge contains a variety of articles and reports of Danish American interest. In addition to the usual reports of Danish American interest, we have included a special section on the life of the late Dr. Borge M. Christensen, an electrical engineer who worked for General Electric Company and on the leading edge of computers and communications technology. Christensen worked in Tucson, Arizona, and pursued an interest in nuclear energy. Danish immigration to the United States.

Eva Maria Johnson was born in 1914, the fifth of seven children of Danish immigrant parents. After her parents' deaths, she lived with her mother and her two sisters. She was active in the National Youth Administration and then with the American Red Cross. Christensen met her during World War II. She married him in 1945 and together they spent many years in South and Central America. Eva Johnson died in 1996 and her husband has given a permission to publish this section of her book.

Dr. Borge M. Christensen has successfully provided us with a most interesting and readable history of the life of his wife. This book is a most valuable addition to the literature of the life of a Danish immigrant in America. It is a most interesting and readable history of the life of his wife. This book is a most valuable addition to the literature of the life of a Danish immigrant in America. It is a most interesting and readable history of the life of his wife. This book is a most valuable addition to the literature of the life of a Danish immigrant in America.

We conclude this issue with a review of United States Letters from Kit Svare Wengel. This collection of letters is put together with commentary and photographs by Kit Svare Wengel who was in the Department of English at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver for 34 years.