Days Never to Be Forgotten: Oliver Cowdery

This book is a compilation of selected presentations from the annual BYU Church History Symposium hosted by BYU Religious Education. Oliver Cowdery was a primary character in the early days of the Church, both before and after its organization. The events he was involved with are significant to the history of the Church. This book explores his life and the many important roles he filled. He was the principal scribe for the Book of Mormon, and he witnessed the heavens opened and the gospel of Jesus Christ restored. As Oliver himself described, “These were days never to be forgotten—to sit under the sound of a voice dictated by the inspiration of heaven, awakened the utmost gratitude of this bosom!”

To Save the Lost: An Easter Celebration

Easter is a wonderful time to recall Jesus's mission to the least, the last, and the lost, for he said, "The Son of man is come to save that which was lost." Not surprisingly, we discover that he sent his disciples to the "lost sheep," and thus their mission of finding the lost is a natural extension of his mission. Some of Jesus' most memorable teaching moments have to do with finding the lost. This volume contains the papers delivered at the 2008 and 2009 Brigham Young University Easter Conferences, which is a celebration of the life and atoning mission of Jesus Christ. We are honored to include articles from Elder Merrill J. Bateman, emeritus member of the Seventy, and Bonnie D. Parkin, former general Relief Society president.

An Uncommon Common Pioneer: The Journals of James Henry Martineau, 1828–1918

James Henry Martineau's journals present the life of a Mormon convert, a pioneer, and an individual who dedicated his life to the service of his family, his country, and his Church. Martineau's contributions to the settlements of northern and southern Utah, southern Idaho, southeast Arizona, and the Mormon colonies in northern Mexico are monumental. He was a civil engineer whose survey work left a lasting impression. Although not a prominent religious leader, he was a patriarch and was often in contact with or serving with those in authority. This volume offers a reflection of this common, yet uncommon, Latter-day Saint pioneer.

Brother Thomas L. Tyler is a resident of Provo, Utah, and the father of eight children. He grew up in Long Beach, California. He attended the Church College of Hawaii, where he received his BA in speech and dramatic arts. He received both a master's and a doctorate degree from Brigham Young University in secondary education with a minor in LDS Church history.

He retired after thirty-nine years in the Church Educational System, where for the first eleven years he worked in curriculum production. During the last twelve years of his career, he supervised Church Education as a zone administrator in many areas of the United States and Latin America. For twenty-five years, he was a regular lecturer for BYU's Division of Continuing Education in both the Know Your Religion and Education Week series. From 1990 to 1993, he served as a member of the general board of the Latter-day Saint Student Association.

Student Editorial Intern

Jonathon R. Owen was born in Mesa, Arizona, and has lived most of his life in the Salt Lake area. He first worked at the Religious Studies Center as a BYU undergraduate. He received his bachelor's degree in English language with an emphasis in editing. He then spent three years in the "real world," working as a technical writer, editor, and production artist before returning to Brigham Young University to work on a master's degree in linguistics. He currently works as a typesetter and as the editing team lead at the RSC. He lives in Spanish Fork with his wife, Ruth, and his two adorable and very busy little boys.

Student Editorial Intern

Daniel O. McClellan graduated from BYU in April 2009 with a BA in ancient Near Eastern studies and a minor in Greek. He is currently reading for a master of studies degree in Jewish studies at the University of Oxford and in November will present a paper on the Greek translation of Exodus in the Textual Criticism of the Hebrew Bible section at the 2009 annual meeting of the Society of Biblical Literature. For two years, Daniel was editor in chief of Studia Antiqua, BYU's student journal for the study of the ancient world. Recently he aided Dr. Donald W. Parry in the preparation of the critical apparatus for sections of the Biblia Hebraica Quinta, the new academic edition of the Hebrew Bible. Although he has a handicap of 2.8, he likes to tell people he is a scratch golfer.

Submission Guidelines

The Religious Educator serves the needs and interests of those who study and teach the restored gospel of Jesus Christ on a regular basis. The distinct focuses are on teaching the gospel; publishing studies on scripture, doctrine, and Church history; and sharing outstanding devotional essays. The contributions to each issue are carefully reviewed and edited by experienced teachers, writers, and scholars. The beliefs of the respective authors are their own and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Religious Studies Center, Brigham Young University, or The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Complete author guidelines, including suitable topics, are provided at tre.byu.edu. All manuscripts should be submitted electronically to rsc@byu.edu. Hard-copy submissions are accepted but not encouraged. Send hard-copy submissions to the editorial office at the address listed below.

Manuscripts must be word processed in double-spaced format, including quotations. A minimum of embedded word-processing commands should be used. Authors should follow style conventions of the Chicago Manual of Style, 15th edition, and the Style Guide for Publications of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 3rd edition, as reflected in a recent issue of the Religious Educator.

Those manuscripts that meet all criteria and appear to fill current needs will be peer reviewed and will receive a friendly, but careful, review. Authors will then be notified of the decision about publication. This process generally takes four to six months, and publication will generally occur within a year after acceptance has been received.

If an article is accepted, authors will be notified and asked to provide photocopies of all source materials cited, arranged in order, numbered to coincide with endnotes, and highlighted to reflect the quotations or paraphrases. Photocopies of source material must include title page and source page with the quotations used highlighted.
