In 1984 and 1985 Yasuko Makino, Japanese Librarian, surveyed East Asian art collections in the United States. Using the results of this survey, Ms. Makino produced the following two papers:

"East Asian art materials: Toward solving problems of collection development and management," Art Documentation 6, no. 3 (Fall 1987): 103-105.

"An evaluation of East Asian collections in selected academic art libraries in the United States," Collection Management 10, no. 4 (1988): 127-136.

Ms. Makino acknowledges and appreciates the travel grants to carry out the survey that she received from the University of Chicago, Harvard University, the University of Michigan, and Princeton University. She is grateful for the help she received from many East Asian and art librarians throughout the country.
