Karen Fog Olwig has a Ph.D in Anthropology from the University of Minnesota and is presently a senior research fellow at the Institute of Ethnology and Anthropology at the University of Copenhagen. She is the author of Cultural Adaptation and Resistance on St. John: Three Centuries of Afro-Caribbean Life, University of Florida Press, 1985. Her article is an adaptation of a paper presented at the Center for Northwest European Languages and Area Studies, University of Minnesota in November, 1987.

Gregory Hansen is a public sector folklorist working with the Florida Folklife Program in Jacksonville's public school system. His article was prepared from the fieldwork he conducted for The Danish Immigrant Museum during their first folk art survey. The project was conducted from December of 1986 to May of 1987 and was supported by the museum and from a grant by the National Endowment for the Arts. Hansen has a B.A. in communications studies from the Pennsylvania State University and a M.A. in folk studies from Western Kentucky University. He has completed short-term folklife research projects in Kentucky, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, South Dakota, and Illinois.

Harold Jensen is professor emeritus of Agricultural and Applied Economics at the University of Minnesota. He earned his Ph.D from Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa, and taught at the University of Kentucky and Purdue University before coming to the University of Minnesota. He is an active member of the Danish American Fellowship in Minneapolis and was one of the founders of Skovsøen, the Danish language camp for young people.

Caroline Olsen is the Minnesota correspondent for Den Danske Pioneer. She is active in the Danish American Fellowship in Minneapolis and edited its Newsletter for 20 years. She is interested in ethnic costumes and has worked in the costume department of the International Institute in St. Paul for many years.

Thorvald Hansen, a past contributor to The Bridge, is editor of Church and Life. He has been Professor of History at Grand View College and Director of the Danish American Archives. He has written books and articles on various aspects of Danish American life and most recently was the compiler of the Danish Immigrant Archival Listing (1988).

Peter L. Petersen, a past contributor to The Bridge, is Professor of History at West Texas State University. He is the author of A Place Called Dana: The Centennial History of Trinity Seminary and Dana College and Danes in America.
