

3-2023

New ISCSC Website

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/ccr>

 Part of the Comparative Literature Commons, History Commons, International and Area Studies Commons, Political Science Commons, and the Sociology Commons

Recommended Citation

(2023) "New ISCSC Website," Comparative Civilizations Review. Vol. 88: No. 88, Article 3.
Available at: <https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/ccr/vol88/iss88/3>

This Comment is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at BYU ScholarsArchive. It has been accepted for inclusion in Comparative Civilizations Review by an authorized editor of BYU ScholarsArchive. For more information, please contact ellen_amatangelo@byu.edu.

New ISCSC Website

After several years of faithful service, the ISCSC website has received a much needed facelift. The new site is more attractive, has more content, and is far easier to navigate. Here are a few facts and pointers about the new ISCSC website that we think may be helpful:

1. The “Home Page” is actually a bit bigger than your screen – scroll down to see all of the content. This goes for computers as well as phones. For viewing on your phone, it may be helpful to turn the phone so that the screen is horizontal. This is especially helpful for the “tabs” at the top of the home page.
2. If you want to join as a member, or refer someone else to join, follow this path: Select the “Administration” tag at the top of the “homepage” and then follow the drop down menu to “Membership – Joining ISCSC” and then you will find the membership information as well as the payment portal, which allows for “Individual with USA Address,” Individual non-USA address,” and “Lifetime.” For institutional accounts – universities, etc., please use either “Individual” or Individual non-USA address,” depending on the mailing address for the account.

There are plenty of other interesting points to explore on the new website. Look forward to a terrific video on our YouTube channel that will feature our Director of Communications, Bibi Pelić, who will provide a full tutorial on the new website.