Discoveries: Two Centuries of Poems by Mormon Women highlights poems that trace Mormon women's life experiences from creation through childbirth, youth, marriage, motherhood, aging, death, and entrance into eternity. The poetry stirs us to remember, to ponder, often to laugh, sometimes to weep, yet always to rejoice.

"Both literary and accessible, these poems reach across generations, connecting them more tightly through this expressive and enjoyable medium."

This remarkable book is "must" reading for students of early LDS history. The Knights, who were with Joseph Smith from the beginning, experienced all the joys and sorrows of the LDS experience in New York, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, and early Utah. Their story is the Mormon story.

—James B. Allen
Professor of History Emeritus
Brigham Young University

Ordinary folks, honest and hard-working, the Knights were not at the top of the hierarchy but were remarkably well placed for witnessing many important events. Historian William G. Hartley has assembled what can be known of them. Because of his willingness to tackle tough issues and offer fresh insights, in chapter after chapter I learned something new or was brought to see events from a different angle. It is a rousing good story.

Professor of History Emeritus
University of Utah

TO OUR READERS

BYU Studies is dedicated to the correlation of revealed and discovered truth and to the conviction that the spiritual and the intellectual can be complementary and fundamentally harmonious avenues of knowledge. This periodical strives to explore scholarly perspectives on Latter-day Saint topics. It is committed to seeking truth "by study and also by faith" (D&C 88:118) and recognizes that all knowledge without charity is nothing (1 Cor. 13:2). It proceeds on the premise that faith and reason, revelation and scholarly learning, obedience and creativity are compatible; they are "many members, yet but one body" (1 Cor. 12:20).

Contributions from all fields of learning are invited. BYU Studies strives to publish articles that openly reflect a Latter-day Saint point of view and are obviously relevant to subjects of general interest to Latter-day Saints, while conforming to high scholarly standards. BYU Studies invites poetry and personal essays dealing with the life of the mind, reflections on personal and spiritual responses to academic experiences, intellectual choices, values, responsibilities, and methods. All personal essays received will be entered in our annual personal essay contest. Short studies and notes are also welcomed.

Opinions expressed in BYU Studies are the opinions of contributors. Their views should not necessarily be attributed to The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Brigham Young University, or BYU Studies editors, staff, or board members.
