

2018

Dark Hunter: The House of Memories

Kathryn Page

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/cbmr>

---

BYU ScholarsArchive Citation

Page, Kathryn (2018) "Dark Hunter: The House of Memories," Children's Book and Media Review: Vol. 39 : Iss. 1 , Article 19.
Available at: <https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/cbmr/vol39/iss1/19>

This Book Review is brought to you for free and open access by the All Journals at BYU ScholarsArchive. It has been accepted for inclusion in Children's Book and Media Review by an authorized editor of BYU ScholarsArchive. For more information, please contact scholarsarchive@byu.edu, ellen\_amatangelo@byu.edu.

Book Review

Dark Hunter: The House of Memories

A man named Mr. Blood and two children, Edgar and Mary, go into the woods. Mr. Blood leaves them at an abandoned house, but the house is not as abandoned as Edgar and Mary think. An old woman appears claiming to have known and raised Edgar and Mary. They both have a spider on their hands to show that she owned them. She freezes the children in hopes to destroy them, and when all hope is lost, Mary remembers that she dropped something that could possibly help.

This book is a very quick read. The writing is well done and does not have too many literary devices. A horror- or mystery-lover would be interested in this book. It includes quite a few twists and keeps the series open to more adventures. This book does not go into much background knowledge, but that probably allows for future books to expand on the storyline. This book is recommended for children who enjoy and can handle scary books and who have a love of mystery.

Author

Benjamin Hulme-Cross

Illustrator

Nelson Evergreen

Reviewer

Kathryn Page

Rating

Dependable

Level

Intermediate

Pages

63

Year

2015

Publisher

Lerner Publishing Group

ISBN

9780062322333