Book Review

Boo Who?

When you are new to the group is there a ghost of a chance to make friends? Boo is facing that difficult challenge. He is different in so many ways. He can't play the games the other kids do! The kids decide to play hide and seek, and now Boo has a game at which he can excel. It appears that anyone with spirit can make friends after all!

This board book is filled with darling illustrations and a direct message which is that everyone can find common ground upon which to build a friendship. The other "kids" are also monsters, so Boo isn't scary, he just has different abilities. This makes the book a great addition to the classroom where differences can be especially frustrating for those with disabilities.
