

2018

Drama Projects for the Middle School Classroom

Sam Whitaker

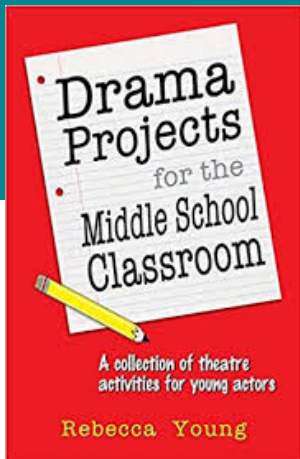

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/cbmr>

BYU ScholarsArchive Citation

Whitaker, Sam (2018) "Drama Projects for the Middle School Classroom," Children's Book and Media Review: Vol. 39 : Iss. 8 , Article 20.

Available at: <https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/cbmr/vol39/iss8/20>

This Book Review is brought to you for free and open access by the All Journals at BYU ScholarsArchive. It has been accepted for inclusion in Children's Book and Media Review by an authorized editor of BYU ScholarsArchive. For more information, please contact scholarsarchive@byu.edu, ellen_amatangelo@byu.edu.

Book Review

Drama Projects for the Middle School Classroom

This guide for teachers is a remarkable way to teach students certain points of acting, allowing the student to do an activity while learning things at the same time. The activities range from “The Infamous Actor X Takes the Stage” to fun trivial games that will get students thinking. Plus, as an added bonus, this book can be used by students to learn by themselves just what an actor ought to know while performing. By the end of the book, actors should be able to take the stage and perform small skits and plays (not included) in front of small audiences, eventually working their confidence levels up to performing plays in front of large audiences.

This book is very well thought-out. The author has created a book that will allow students to participate in activities without even realizing that they are learning that certain skill. Students “”and even teachers- will be able to find their inner actor as they use the games, activities, and trivia questions that form an acting mindset within themselves. This book is a very well-written piece and ought to be rewarded for all of the effort and thought that went into it. The author knows the subject of theatre very well and explains everything in a way that anyone can understand what she is trying to tell them.

Author

Rebecca Young

Illustrator

Reviewer

Sam Whitaker

Rating

Outstanding

Level

Intermediate, Young Adult

Pages

86

Year

1965

Publisher

Meriwether Publishing

ISBN

9781566081917