Clark the Shark can't wait for tomorrow! He tells his classmates and his teacher all about how his mom is going to bring his favorite brownies to class. When he comes home the brownies are on the counter, ready for the next day, and they look delicious. Clark decides to test one, but one brownie soon turns into the whole plate! When his mom comes home, she is shocked! After Clark apologizes, he and his mom make some new brownies and decorate them. The next day at school everyone loves the brownies, and Clark tells them what he learned. "When you've had your snack, just hold back!"

This Level 1 Beginning Reading book is perfect for children just starting out their reading career! Clark the Shark boasts short sentences with simple text. The book includes sharks, dessert, a family, and a class, combining elements can be exciting, familiar, and comforting at the same time. This Clark the Shark book belongs to a collection, which may be attractive to young children who click with the fishy protagonist, as well as to their parents in helping their children find new books to read. Clark can also help young children learn about conflict resolution by showing how to navigate a tough conversation with his mom. This book is a great beginner's read.
