Florence is a sad little firefly who wants to her find her way home. Readers can help her get back to her family as they turn each page looking for the flashes of light. They just might be other fireflies, but following the lights leads to all kinds of things. Soon, if we wish hard enough, Florence just might find what she seeks.

This interactive book is good for wiggly readers because they get the opportunity to participate as they read. Prompted by the words, they can do things like say “hi,” shout encouragements, and flap their hands to help Florence fly faster.
