

APPENDIX 4

IMAGES OF WILLIAM I. APPLEBY'S
JOURNAL ENTRY, 5 MAY 1841

1346. have been the best copies. There are also representations of seven bears Bristle Sables, and two attached to a Hind for Hough, and a female giving it. Also the serpent which the Egyptians call the Apis, with two legs, erect in the form and appearance of man. But his head is the form, and representing the serpent, with his forked tongue extended. There are likewise representations of an Altar erected, with a man kneeling and laud them, and a Priest, with a knife in his hand, standing at the feet, with a dove over the seven horns on the Altar, with some other Gods, standing around it. A Celestial Globe, with the planet Vulcan or first motion of the Supreme Being, a planet of light, which planet makes a revolution over in a thousand years. Also the line connecting the ground by word of the Holy Scriptures, to Adam in the Garden of Eden, as also to Seth, Noah, Melchizedek, Abraham, and to all whom the Scriptures was revealed. Abraham also, in the bosom of Sarah, sitting upon the throne, them crossing upon returning, with a crown upon his head, representing the Scriptures as emblematical of the great Treasury on Heaven, with the Scepter of Justice and Judgment in his hands. And King Pharaoh, standing behind him, together with a Prince, a principal Minister, and a Clerk slain of the King. A Genealogy of the Mummies, and Epitaphs on their deaths &c. &c. are all distinctly represented in the Papyrus, which is called the "Book of Abraham"

The Male Mummy was one of the ancient Pharaohs of Egypt, and a Priest, as he is embalm'd with his tongue extended, representing a speaker. The female was his wife and two daughters, as a part of the writing has been translated, and informs us, who they were, also when writing it, and when these mummies were embalm'd, which is nearly four thousand years ago. There is also a vivid description given on the Papyrus, of the creature's face more accurately or minutely, than the account given in the Bible's history when the idolatrous Priest, Elkhanah, attempted to offer up Abraham
