ADDENDA TO "EXPLAINING THE CHANGE FROM REPUBLIC TO PRINCIPATE IN ROME"

Jürgen Deininger

[The Editors regret the omission of the notes to Jürgen Deininger's article, which appeared in the previous issue of this Review.]

The article which appeared in No. 4 was delivered as a lecture at the Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton, N.J. (Dec. 1979) and at Columbia University, New York (Feb. 1980); an earlier German version had been read before the Mommsen-Gesellschaft at Augsburg and included in the unpublished Festschrift for W. Schmitthenner in 1976. The English translation was prepared with the invaluable and patient assistance of Dr. Susan M. Babbitt, of the Institute for Advanced Study. I hope to treat the whole subject more thoroughly elsewhere; but the following notes and bibliographical references seem to me to be indispensable for a correct understanding of the text. - For the jurist Pomponius (p. 80 of the article) see Digest 1,2,9-12; cf. also, for ancient opinions, e.g., Tacitus, Histories 1,16,1; Dio Cassius 52,15,6ff.

The following list contains, in alphabetical order, the authors and titles of books mentioned in the article, and, if necessary, references to the pages quoted.

E.S. Gruen, The Last Generation of the Roman Republic (Berkeley-Los Angeles, 1974), For the quotation (p. 88 of the article) see p. 4; for 'other authors' (p. 97 of the article) cf. Bringmann (below, under Mommsen) p. 361f. as well as K. Christ, Krise und Untergang der römischen Republik (Darmstadt, 1979), p. 6f.

F. Hampl, "Römische Politik in republikanischer Zeit und das Problem des ‘Sittenverfalls’” (1959), now in his Geschichte als kritische Wissenschaft, vol. 3 (Darmstadt, 1979), pp. 22-47 (for criticism of the concept of moral decay).

Chr. Meier, Res publica amissa (Wiesbaden, 1966); for the considerations on the vigor of the republican order in Rome, p. 101 of the article, see pp. 151-161.

Ed. Meyer, Caesars Monarchie und das Principat des Pompeius, 3rd ed. (Stuttgart-Berlin, 1922); for the quotation (p. 87 of the article), see p. 5.

Montesquieu, Considérations sur les causes de la grandeur des Romains et de leur décadence (Garnier edition, Paris 1967). For the quotation (p. 81 of the article) see ch. 9 (p. 50 in the Garnier ed.).

(Breslau, 1881), esp. ch. 1 (pp. 1-103). - Mention could also be made, e.g., of F.B. Marsh, The Founding of the Roman Empire, end ed. (Oxford, 1927), with its two introductory chapters: "The Administrative Problems of the Republic" (pp. 1-20) and "The Development of the Military System" (pp. 21-49).

S.L. Utchenko, Krizis i padenie rimskoj respubliki (The crisis and fall of the Roman republic, in Russian) (Moscow, 1965).
