

1-1-1965

An English Graveyard

Clinton F. Larson

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/byusq>

Recommended Citation

Larson, Clinton F. (1965) "An English Graveyard," BYU Studies Quarterly: Vol. 6 : Iss. 1 , Article 10.
Available at: <https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/byusq/vol6/iss1/10>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the All Journals at BYU ScholarsArchive. It has been accepted for inclusion in BYU Studies Quarterly by an authorized editor of BYU ScholarsArchive. For more information, please contact scholarsarchive@byu.edu, ellen\_amatangelo@byu.edu.

An English Graveyard

Once I climbed a castled hill
And saw below me in a nook of land
A village there
So neat and prim
It flickered like a diadem.

So down I went to find it real,
But well before I reached the square,
Before I shook a hand
Or saw such stony heads
As do their nodding over bowls
and boards of fare,
I found a graveyard
Topsy-turvy by a church,
Undulant with grassy mounds,
In some slow laughter of another time.

The headstones nodding wise with epitaph,
I walked along a grassy path,
By yews and elms,
Jotting down their dates and lore.

What dowager is this who mocked the poor?
What husband here with wives around?
What vixen nestled there alone?
And why?

An easy party do they keep,
As they must, abounding here,
And near a church.

I would not pry,
But if their headstones are awry,
Do they sleep?

CLINTON F. LARSON*

---

* Dr. Larson is professor of English at Brigham Young University.