Editorial Board Member

Jolene Edmunds Rockwood lives in Batesville, Indiana, with her husband, Fred. They have six children and ten grandchildren. Jolene earned a BA from the University of Utah, an MTS from the Harvard Divinity School, and is a contributing author to three books on theological issues. She has been teaching early-morning seminary for twenty years. As an avid supporter of the arts, Jolene founded an arts council and started arts-in-education programs in southeastern Indiana, which have won her state and local recognition. She has written numerous grants and is presently raising funds for a performing arts center.

RSC Director

Dr. Terry B. Ball is a professor of ancient scripture and dean of Religious Education at Brigham Young University. He joined the BYU faculty in 1992 after spending twelve years as an institute and seminary teacher. He received his PhD from BYU in archaeobotany with emphasis on the Ancient Near East. Brother Ball’s recent ancient scripture research has focused primarily on the prophet Isaiah. In addition to teaching and researching in ancient scripture, Brother Ball is an active researcher in the field of archaeobotany and is currently involved with research in Israel, Syria, Turkey, Jordan, and Oman. He is married to the former DeAnna Hill. They have six children.

Student Editorial Intern

Rachel Ann Grover is a graduate student in art history at BYU. For her undergraduate degree she studied English and humanities and wrote an honors thesis on Resurrection motifs in World War I art. She has worked at the RSC for three and a half years and enjoys editing. Rachel loves to travel, go to museums, and study sacred architecture. She served a mission in Poland and likes to eat pierogi. In the summer of 2008 she will be living in Jordan with her husband, Andrew, as he studies Arabic and she works on her master’s thesis on Byzantine church mosaics.
Submission Guidelines

The Religious Educator serves the needs and interests of those who study and teach the restored gospel of Jesus Christ on a regular basis. The distinct focuses are on teaching the gospel; publishing studies on scripture, doctrine, and Church history; and sharing outstanding devotional essays. The contributions to each issue are carefully reviewed and edited by experienced teachers, writers, and scholars. The beliefs of the respective authors are their own and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Religious Studies Center, Brigham Young University, or The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Complete author guidelines, including suitable topics, are provided at tre.byu.edu. All manuscripts should be submitted electronically to rsc@byu.edu. Hard-copy submissions are accepted but not encouraged. Send hard-copy submissions to the editorial office at the address listed below.

Manuscripts must be word processed in double-spaced format, including quotations. A minimum of embedded word-processing commands should be used. Authors should follow style conventions of the Chicago Manual of Style, 15th edition, and the Style Guide for Publications of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 3rd edition, as reflected in a recent issue of the Religious Educator.

Those manuscripts that meet all criteria and appear to fill current needs will be peer reviewed and will receive a friendly, but careful, review. Authors will then be notified of the decision about publication. This process generally takes four to six months, and publication will generally occur within a year after acceptance has been received.

If an article is accepted, authors will be notified and asked to provide photocopies of all source materials cited, arranged in order, numbered to coincide with endnotes, and highlighted to reflect the quotations or paraphrases. Photocopies of source material must include title page and source page with the quotations used highlighted.
