Responses From Readers

We would like to hear from you. This is a page asking for your responses to books. We are encouraging responses from adults, young adults, and children. Duplicate the response page and check the appropriate age group when you send in your reactions. In a later issue your responses will be published.
Nonfiction Books For Young Children

What kinds of nonfiction books do you think ought to be written for children? e.g. nature or plant and animals, our earth and how it should be used, biography, science experiments, sports, societal problems: drugs, city slums, space exploration, home and family, etc.
