Poem for Thomas Morgan (after attending a temple session)

Randall L. Hall

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/byusq

Recommended Citation
Available at: https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/byusq/vol29/iss4/10

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at BYU ScholarsArchive. It has been accepted for inclusion in BYU Studies Quarterly by an authorized editor of BYU ScholarsArchive. For more information, please contact scholarsarchive@byu.edu, ellen_amatangelo@byu.edu.
Poem for Thomas Morgan
(after attending a temple session)

Since this morning, Thomas Morgan,
When I stood and spoke your words
I have been wondering about your children
In the quiet, gentle dusk—

Did you hold them on your knee?

Did pleasure kindle in your wife
To hear you speak her name, unplanned?

What subtle tuggings were the sweetest to your soul?
What baubles lingered longest in your hand?

Did you chill with joy
When light and water glowed and tangled in your sight?

How often did you pause to see the fields of grain
Bend lovely in the wind
Or watch small birds in tufted flight?

Ah, Thomas Morgan,
I have been wondering

What did you see, or sense, or say
When I stood in white and spoke for you today?

—Randall L. Hall

Randall L. Hall is a poet living in Orem, Utah.