For Minerva Teichert there were only two reasons to paint—“either a thing must be very beautiful, or, it must be an important story.” She loved the truths of the Book of Mormon; she felt determined to tell this important story through her masterful art.

Collected here is her complete series of Book of Mormon murals—each one a story by itself. From the sons of Lehi, presenting their wealth to Laban in exchange for the brass plates, to Christ appearing at the temple in Bountiful, Minerva Teichert captured the teachings and drama of the Book of Mormon.

One hundred color plates, assembled here for the first time, tell the story Teichert felt inspired to share through her painting. An overview of Teichert’s mural techniques and personal motivations complements the paintings and sketches. Scriptures, captions, and excerpts from her letters enrich the presentation of these works throughout the book.
