Bear Says Thanks

Liz Kazandzhy

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarsarchive.byu.edu/cbmr

BYU ScholarsArchive Citation

This Book Review is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at BYU ScholarsArchive. It has been accepted for inclusion in Children's Book and Media Review by an authorized editor of BYU ScholarsArchive. For more information, please contact scholarsarchive@byu.edu, ellen_amatangelo@byu.edu.
Title: Bear Says Thanks
Author: Karma Wilson
Illustrator: Jane Chapman
Reviewer: Liz Kazandzhy
Publisher: Margaret K. McElderry Books
Publication Year: 2012
ISBN: 9781416958567
Number of Pages: 40
Interest Level: Preschool, Primary
Rating: Excellent

Review

Bear wants to make a feast for his friends, but when he discovers that his cupboards are bare, he doesn’t know what to do. But soon Mouse stops by with a tasty little treat, followed by Hare with muffins, Badger with fish, and all the rest of Bear’s pals with other platters of scrumptious food. Bear says “Thanks!” every time but then gets disappointed that he has nothing to share with them in return. But the other animals aren’t worried about it—they’re just grateful that he’s their friend. The group settles down to a delicious feast and enjoy friendly conversations with lots of laughter, love, and (of course) gratitude.

Like other Bear Books in this series, this book has bright and cheerful illustrations that will interest and delight both young and old readers. The message is clearly one about gratitude and friendship, and many find it to be a fitting book for Thanksgiving to teach children the importance of those principles. The rhyming and rhythm of the text is a little awkward in places, but the resounding line, “And the bear says, ‘Thanks!’” stands out as the most important part and is very well-designed in the book. This book will mostly appeal to those who are fans of the Bear Books in general, but even first-time readers will enjoy this simple read with its lovable characters and glad message.