ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

There are many people who deserve an expression of appreciation for their supportive help in the writing of this thesis.

Dr. Richard O. Cowan, my Committee Chairman, more than anyone I know exemplifies the Master's teaching of going the extra mile. Words are not adequate to express my sincere appreciation for his advice, patience and encouragement and the countless hours he spent helping me to edit this thesis.

My thanks is extended to Dr. Melvin J. Petersen, minor committee member, and Dr. Larry C. Porter, major department chairman, who made valuable suggestions which rendered the thesis acceptable.

Gratitude is expressed to Earl Olson for suggesting this project and to David Mayfield, Ron Watt, Gladys Noyce, Pat Knecht, Beverly Berg, Duffy Fenn and Linda Haslam of the Church Historical Department for the hours of helpful assistance.

Appreciation is also extended to LaVoy Hill for her many suggestions on the difficult format and for typing the thesis.

To my Mom and Dad a special thanks for all their love and encouragement all my life. My Father's death in 1974 prevented him from seeing the completion of this work, a dream we had long shared together. To him and Mom this work is affectionately dedicated.

Finally, to my wife and sweetheart, Sue, goes my love and appreciation for her constant support. To her, for sacrificing so much time and companionship, this thesis and any good derived from it is also affectionately dedicated.

INTRODUCTION

SIGNIFICANCE OF THIS STUDY

Since the earliest days of its existence The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has kept records of its members and their Church activity. A loose system of minutes and oral reports in 1830 has evolved into a very sophisticated system of record keeping today. From all over the world reports are sent to Church headquarters where they are compiled and analyzed.

This thesis will be a history of formal reports from stakes and missions relative to membership and vital data as well as activity in Priesthood and auxiliary organizations.

The writer became interested in the subject upon hearing about the recommendation of Earl E. Olson, Church Archivist, for such a project. The writer has received not only encouragement by the Church Historical Department, but enthusiastic cooperation. David Mayfield, a member of the Church library staff, has suggested a further study in the area of Church reports. This would include making a master file, year by year, of every report form the Church has ever used.
This interest in reports, although not new, had been rekindled because of the increased emphasis placed on individual activity in the Church in the past decade. Reports are described as "... alive and vibrant,"¹ because they measure the living pulse of today's activities. They are a reflection of the quality and quantity of Church participation. They provide valuable feedback to Church officials and in retrospect reveal long-range trends.

SCOPE AND DELIMITATIONS

The earliest reports of activity and enrollment in Church programs were given in the ward and stake histories or in personal correspondence between local leaders and Church headquarters. This study is limited to information contained on printed forms that are available in the Church Historical Department and were used Church-wide. Time did not allow the author to look at every one of the hundreds of thousands of reports on file in the Church Archives; this thesis is based on only a sample of each form, usually every fifth year. Financial reports of organizations and separate individuals, personal confidential matters and minutes of meetings will not be included.

¹Delbert L. Stapley, "How to Use Records and Reports," The Improvement Era, LXXII (August, 1969), 16-18. (See Appendix A for complete text.)
The thesis will emphasize membership reports as well as Priesthood and auxiliary activity reports. It will analyze the type of information called for rather than the statistical figures themselves.

METHODS OF PROCEDURE AND SOURCES USED

The importance of record keeping as revealed in Holy Writ will first be considered, as a foundation for the future chapters. Then a systematic analysis of Statistical, Membership, Priesthood, Auxiliary and Correlated reports will follow. The reports for each chapter or section will be arranged in chronological order with emphasis on the major reports.

The thesis analyzes information sent in by wards (large local congregations) and stakes (dioceselike ecclesiastical units composed of several wards). Similar reports from branches (smaller local congregations) and missions (administrative units in areas of more limited and scattered population) were examined by the author and found to be almost identical.

Most of the reports in the thesis used the same reporting channel. The ward (branch) clerk or secretary compiled the information from his unit at the end of the reporting period. He then forwarded it to his counterpart at the stake (mission) level. When the Stake Clerk had received and compiled all the data from the units in his stake, he then sent his compilation and the ward reports to the proper Priesthood or auxiliary agency on the General Church level. These general agencies would then examine and analyze the data. By comparing the information with previous years, they could determine significant church trends.

The primary sources which have been studied in this research are the official reports of the Church located in the Archives of the Church Historical Department and auxiliary offices.

Board minutes, personal interviews and some secondary sources provide important background information.

SCRIPTURAL EVIDENCE ON THE DOCTRINE OF RECORD KEEPING

From the earliest days of its existence, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has called secretaries, historians, clerks and recorders to serve in all its stakes, wards, missions and branches. These people have written and compiled numerous records. In the past century and a half the Church has accumulated one of the largest religious manuscript libraries in existence. It has tried to maintain accurate and complete records of events involving the entire organization and events involving each individual member. Today the Church has one of the most sophisticated and organized systems of record-keeping and reporting of any similar organization in the world.

The question arises, Why are the Latter-day Saints such a "record-keeping people?"

The purpose of this chapter is to answer that question using the revealed word of God as found in the Holy Scriptures.

ANCIENT SCRIPTURAL RECORDS

Records Kept from the Beginning

From the beginning the scriptures have emphasized the need for record-keeping. In the days of Adam and his immediate posterity "... a book of remembrance was kept, in the which was recorded ... a genealogy ... of the Children of God. And this was in the book of the generation of Adam."\(^2\)

The above scripture indicates that Adam and his immediate posterity kept a record of their family which would also represent the record of the people of God's Church on the earth at that time.

Abraham, who wrote the oldest records that are available today, stated:

But the records of the fathers ... the Lord God preserved in mine own hands ... have I kept even unto this day and I shall endeavor to write some of these things upon this record for the benefit of my posterity that shall come after me. (P. of G. P., Abraham 1:31.)

From this scripture it is apparent that Abraham had access to records kept by writers earlier than himself.

Perhaps one of these writers was Enoch, the great

\(^2\)The Pearl of Great Price (Salt Lake City: The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 1971), Moses 4:1-4, hereafter cited as P. of G. P. prophet who walked with God. He was commanded to keep a "book of remembrance" which he said was "written among us, according to the pattern given by the finger of God." (P. of G.P., Moses 6:46.)

Moses, who came after Abraham but recorded much of the same material, did not have access to the writings of previous prophets. Therefore, he was privileged to see in vision a panorama of earth's history. From this "eye witness" experience, Moses was able to record accurately the things that he wrote. That his record came as a direct result of a divine commandment is attested by the following scriptures:

And now Moses, my son, I will speak unto thee concerning this earth upon which thou standest; and thou shalt write the things which I shall speak. (P. of G.P., Moses 1:40.)

... the Lord spake unto Moses, saying: Behold, I reveal unto you concerning this heaven, and this earth; write the words which I speak. (P. of G.P., Moses 2:1.)

Moses' record was vital to the people of Israel. Periodically the record was brought forth and read to the people (Nehemiah 3:1-9). It was also used as a textbook in teaching children to read and write (P. of G.P., Moses 6:6).

The Book of Mormon indicates that the writings of Moses were so important that when the Prophet Lehi left Jerusalem with his family, the Lord commanded him to send his sons back into the city to obtain this record which was written on plates of brass.
The Prophet Nephi pointed out that it was "the wisdom of God that these plates should be preserved." After they had been secured so that his nation would not dwindle and perish in unbelief, Lehi commented about the contents of the plates:

And he beheld that they did contain the five books of Moses . . . and also a record of the Jews from the beginning . . . and also the prophecies of the holy prophets [especially Jeremiah] . . . and also . . . a genealogy of his fathers. . . . (B. of M., I Nephi 5:11-14.)

After traveling for some distance, Nephi was commanded by the Lord to make two sets of metal plates to record his family's activities. One set was for a religious history and the other set was for a secular history (B. of M., I Ne. 9:3-5). These plates were handed down from generation to generation by the prophet-scribes.

One of the best examples in all the scriptures of the importance of accurate record-keeping is recorded by another man named Nephi. The incident occurred during the Lord's visit to the Americas and it shows that the Savior is keenly aware of the records that were being kept in His Church. The Lord called Nephi to Him and said:

Bring forth the record which ye have kept. And when Nephi had brought forth the records . . . [the Lord] cast his eyes upon them and said . . . I commanded my servant Samuel . . . that he should testify unto this people . . . Was it not so? And his disciples answered him and said: Yea, Lord . . . And Jesus said unto them: How be it that ye have not written this thing . . . And it came to pass that Nephi remembered that this thing had not been written. And it came to pass that Jesus commanded that it should be written; therefore, it was written according as he commanded. (B. of M., III Nephi 23:7-13.)

Thus the scriptures indicate that the Lord wanted His people in all parts of the world to keep written records. To emphasize this idea He said:

For I command all men, both in the east and in the west, and in the north and in the south, and in the islands of the sea, that they shall write the words which I shall speak unto them; for out of the books which shall be written I will judge the world, every man according to their works, according to that which is written.

For I shall speak unto the Jews and they shall write it; and I shall also speak unto the Nephites and they shall write it; and I shall also speak unto the other tribes of the House of Israel, which I have led away, and they shall write it; and I shall also speak unto all nations of the earth and they shall write it. (B. of M., II Nephi 29:11-12.)

The Purpose for Keeping These Records

The ancient records were kept for a variety of reasons. Abraham said that he kept his record for the benefit of those who would come after him. Moses kept his records because God commanded him to. Nephi stated that records were kept because it was the wisdom of the Lord that their nation not "dwindle and perish in unbelief." (B. of M., I Nephi 4:13.) He later pointed out that his purpose in writing, as God commanded, was to persuade men to gain a testimony of the gospel and come to Christ (B. of M., I Nephi 6:4). Moroni, the last writer in the Book of Mormon, added a new dimension to the area of record-keeping when he said that the names of church members "were taken that they might be remembered and nourished by the good word of God." (B. of M., Moroni 6:4.) To this Christ added the thought that men would be judged according to the things that are written on the books of His kingdom.

MODERN SCRIPTURAL RECORDS

Records Kept from the Beginning of This Dispensation

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints was organized in modern times on April 6, 1830. On that day Joseph Smith recorded a revelation, which contained the following commandment: "Behold, there shall be a record kept among you . . . through the will of God the Father and the grace of your Lord Jesus Christ." 4

Earlier that same month the Lord revealed what information was to be contained on the record. He said:

4 The Doctrine and Covenants (Salt Lake City: The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 1971), 21:1, hereafter cited as D&C. a regular list of all the names of the whole Church [is to] be kept in a book by one of the elders . . . And also, if any have been expelled from the church, so that their names may be blotted out of the general church record of names. (D&C 20:82-83.)

In March of the following year, John Whitmer became the Church Historian and Recorder. His instructions stated that "... John should write and keep a regular history . . . transcribing all things which shall be given. . . ." Further in the same revelation, the Lord emphatically declared that this record was to be kept continually (D&C 47:1, 3).

The Church received a fourth revelation on record keeping in November, 1832:

It is the duty of the Lord's clerk . . . to keep a history and a general church record of all things that transpire in Zion . . . And also [my people's] manner of life, their faith, and works; and also the apostates who apostatized after receiving their inheritances. (D&C 85:1-2.)

The Purpose for Keeping These Records

According to the modern-day revelations cited above, record keeping has had two distinct purposes. First, it was to keep a written history of all events occurring in the Church. Second, it was to keep an accurate list of the members of the Church and record information about them. The Doctrine and Covenants explained that this list of Church members should also include information concerning the "faith and works" of each person (D&C 85:1-2). Joseph Smith gave the reason why this type of information should be included on the Church record. Writing on the eternal value of records and the role they would play in the final judgement, he quoted Revelation 20:12. Then he added:

You will discover in this quotation that the books were opened; and another book was opened which was the book of life; but the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works; ... the books spoken of must be the books which contained the record of their works, and refer to the records which are kept on earth. And the book, which was the book of life, is the record which is kept in heaven ... that in all your recordings it may be recorded in heaven ... whatsoever you record on earth shall be recorded in heaven, and whatsoever you do not record on earth shall not be recorded in heaven; for out of the books shall your dead be judged according to their own works. ... (D&C 128:7-8.)

An earlier revelation, also pointed out the consequences of an individual not having his name inscribed on the books of the Lord's kingdom.

And they who are not found written in the book of remembrance shall find none inheritance in that day, but shall be cut asunder, and their portion shall be appointed among unbelievers ... And they who are of the High Priesthood whose names are not written in the book ... or that are found to have apostatized, or to have been cut off from the church ... shall not find an inheritance among the saints of the Most High. (D&C 85:9-11.)

CONCLUSION

One Mormon historian concluded that "a careful study of the scriptures reveals the fact that from the days of Adam records have been kept." The scriptures also indicated that this was done because of direct commandments from God, who is keenly aware and concerned about the material that is being recorded. This information was written for several reasons, but ultimately, the records of the Church are the "books" out of which all men will be judged. Finally, the importance of record keeping was summed up in these words:

In light of what has been quoted from modern revelation, it is very evident that record keeping constitutes one of the important activities in the Church of Jesus Christ and that it is one of the Lord's requirements that the work be done efficiently and accurately. It is also requisite that careful records must be kept of the good works performed by members of the Church . . . in order that their names may be written "... in the book of the law of God, saith the Lord of hosts" and thereupon be recorded in the "Lamb's Book of Life."

The following chapters will consider various Records and Reports kept by the Church.

Chapter 3

STATISTICAL REPORTS

In 1852, just five years after the arrival of the Latter-day Saints in the Salt Lake Valley, the wards and stakes of the Church began reporting their activity to the Presiding Bishop on official forms. These earliest forms called "Stake Quarterly Reports" ran until 1903 when they were incorporated into the "Annual Financial and Statistical Report."

STAKE QUARTERLY REPORTS, 1852-1903

The earliest known formal reports of the Church were the "Stake Quarterly Reports" (see Appendix E). Sent in quarterly, semi-annually and annually, they stressed numbers rather than activity and were possibly not issued every year before 1877.

1852-1864

From this thirteen year period, only reports of the following nine years are on file in the Church Historical Department: 1852-1857, 1859, 1860, 1864. It is also interesting to note that during this time, except for 1854 and 1855, the column headings were not included on the printed form, but were written in by hand.

These reports were compiled on a ward basis and then sent to the Church Recorder (later to the Presiding Bishop's Office [PBO]) who would make a recapitulation by stakes. The recapitulation would include totals for each ward in a stake and then the stake total at the bottom. With only seven stakes in the Church, and one short report being sent in by the wards in those seven stakes, there was not a great deal of paperwork required to keep the Church's statistics during this period.

The following information was called for on these reports. The years in parenthesis indicate when that particular item was added.

1. Number of priesthood holders (by quorum and totaled).
2. Number of members not ordained.
3. Total of numbers 1 and 2.
4. Persons over eight years of age not baptized.
5. Children under eight years of age.
6. Total not baptized.
7. Total persons in ward.
8. Number of persons on missions.
9. Baptized, Rebaptized, Births, Deaths, Excommunicated in last six months.
10. Males not ordained (1856).

1865-1876

There are no "Stake (or Ward) Quarterly Reports" on file in the Church Historical Department during these years. There are two obvious explanations for this. First, it is possible that no reports were required by the Church during those years. Second, the reports could have been sent in and then misplaced. The latter choice seems to be the most likely.

1877-1903

In 1877, the report was given its permanent name, "Statistical Report of the ___________ Ward (or Stake)."

(See Appendix E.) Every year of this period is represented in the files of the Historical Department of the Church. The information called for was basically the same with only three minor changes of format in 1877, 1880 and 1897. The seventeen years from 1880 to 1896, when this report had the same exact format without any changes is the longest such time period in the history of Church reports. In 1897, the format of the "Ward Statistical Report" was changed significantly and became the forerunner of later reports.

The following information was requested from 1877-1903:

1. Number of priesthood holders (by quorums), members and children and the total.
2. Families.
3. Marriages.
5. Children blessed.
6. Members and children received.
7. Members and children removed.
8. Baptisms—new members and children.
10. Deaths (by sex)—members and children.
11. Individuals drawing support—amount drawn.
12. Tithe payers—male, female, full, part.
13. Donors to temple (1878-79).

FORM J—ANNUAL FINANCIAL AND STATISTICAL REPORTS 1904-1938

Prior to 1904, there were two annual reports that were sent into the PBO. The statistical report above and a "Financial and Historical" report. In 1903, the two were combined (see Appendix E). The financial report included a detailed accounting for all monies received and disbursed from tithing, fast offerings, building maintenance and welfare contributions. The historical report was a list of ward officers and a brief statement of important ward events. This thesis will discuss only the statistical elements of this newly enlarged report.

In 1904, the Statistical Report remained the same as in previous years, with the addition of a section for auxiliary enrollment.

In 1910, the report expanded in several ways. Most of the information called for was broken down by priesthood quorums, member (male and female) and children (male and female) within the stake or mission. It was totaled for the year with a comparison to the previous year (or years). Increasing emphasis was also placed on the level of activity rather than just on the total numbers as on earlier reports. Toward the end of the report, which was twenty to thirty pages long, a recapitulation of most of the information was given by wards with a stake total at the bottom. This was by far the longest and most complicated report that the Church ever used. It was not issued to stakes and wards after 1938.

\(^1\)Compiled from Form E Report (see chapter 4).
The "Annual Financial and Statistical Report" also contained several items pertaining specifically to the priesthood. These will be discussed in chapter 5.

MISSION ANNUAL REPORT 1910-1951

The annual report of missions began in 1910 and continued until 1951. It was not as detailed as the stake report and contained some information that was peculiar to missionary work, and therefore not on the stake report.

The first report was issued in 1910 and was concerned with enrollment and increase and decrease of membership. This was broken down by priesthood quorum, member and children with a comparison to the previous year. The second page had to do with missionary work such as, number of conversions, tracts distributed, cottage meetings held, etc. It also listed the number of missionaries in the mission. In later years, it included some vital statistics which were compiled from Form 42FP, the mission equivalent to Form E.

The final year of this report was 1951.

STATISTICAL REPORT WITH FORM E, 1914-1972

From 1914 until 1966 a statistical report was sent in with the annual Form E report. (The Form E report will be discussed in chapter 4.) This new report was variously called:

1. "Ward Annual Historical Report for the Year 1914."
2. "Historical Record for the Year 1915."

In form and content it duplicated Form J. The only differences between the two reports were the length (Form J was longer and contained more information), and the title.

This duplication continued until 1938 when the Form J was discontinued. From then until 1966, this was the annual statistical report of the Church.

It contained the following information:

1. Number on record.
2. Increase (in membership).
3. Decrease in membership.
5. Divorce statistics.

---

For items marked (*), refer to discussion of Form J for greater detail.

   a. Number of priests, teachers, deacons (by age) (1950).
   b. Number of Senior Aaronic, ordained to Melchizedek Priesthood during year (1960).
   c. Aaronic Priesthood becoming 21 years of age during year (1960).
   d. Unordained male members becoming 21 years of age during the year (1960).
   e. Number of priests, teachers and deacons quorums or groups.

   a. Number now in armed services.
   b. Number released from armed service during the year.
   c. Members reported dead during the year.
   d. Total ward membership having served with the armed forces during the year.

STAKE AND WARD QUARTERLY REPORTS
1919-1938

From 1919 to 1938, the Church used a quarterly report to go along with the annual Form J report. This report was for wards (Form 136) as well as stakes (Form 137) with the reports being identical. Like the previous report it duplicated information that was on the Form J, which was also discontinued in 1938.

The following information was summarized with a comparison to the previous year. It also called for the increase or decrease between the two years:

1. Membership of stake.

2. Sacrament meetings.

3. Priesthood meetings.

5. Tithes.

7. Poor Account (Fast Offering, Church Security Program, Church Welfare Program).

10. Increase in membership (1924).

MONTHLY STATISTICAL REPORT 1939-1961

In 1939 a new monthly statistical report was put into use by the Church (see Appendix E). It incorporated some, but not all of the information previously contained on Form J and Form 137.

The report was individually summarized by wards followed by a stake total. It contained these items:

QUARTERLY CONFIDENTIAL REPORT
OF STAKES, 1964

A quarterly confidential report of stakes also appeared in 1964. On the first page President Joseph Fielding Smith, President of the Council of the Twelve, wrote to stake presidents:

"This report is designed to constitute a quarterly check on the programs of the Church in your stake. It will help appraise you and your associates, as well as the visiting General Authority, of the conditions existing and the progress being made in your stake."

The first page contained several questions about the regularity of different meetings held under the direction of the stake presidency and bishoprics. The last two pages contained data on:

1. Membership.
2. Attendance at Priesthood and Sacrament Meetings.
3. Tithes and fast offerings.
4. Aaronic Priesthood (under and over 21 years of age).
5. Enrollment in seminaries and institutes.

7. Service men's program.

This particular form lasted only one year and was replaced by the report below.

QUARTERLY STAKE ACTIVITY REPORT
1965-1967

The Quarterly Stake Activity Report was used for the years 1965-1967 (see Appendix E). In 1967 it was incorporated into the Correlated Report (see chapter 7). The main sections were:

MONTHLY STAKE STATISTICAL SUMMARY
1965-1967

This report was used in conjunction with the Quarterly Report above. It contained the same basic information (see Appendix E).

CONCLUSION

The Church has called for statistical reports from wards and stakes since 1852. The earliest ones emphasized the number of ordinances performed and persons enrolled. Then around the turn of the twentieth century the forms stressed attendance as well as the status of the organization. Then a shift in emphasis began in the 1960's. The last four reports in this chapter were forerunners of the Correlated Reporting system (see chapter 7), which was designed to stress the activity of individuals. Begun in 1967, this correlated system replaced these statistical reports.
Chapter 4

CHURCH MEMBERSHIP RECORDS AND REPORTS

A responsibility of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is to prepare its members for "... immortality and eternal life. ..." (P. of G. P., Moses 1:39.) This goal has prompted a great concern in the Church for the status of each individual. As stated, Moroni taught that a record should be kept that all members "might be remembered and nourished by the good word of God, to keep them in the right way. ..." (B. of M., Moroni 6:4.)

This chapter will consider two areas. First, the official records listing who the members were, and, second, reports of significant changes in the status of these members.

OFFICIAL RECORDS OF MEMBERS

Informal Records, 1830-1877

During the formative period of Church record keeping, 1830-1877, there was no standardized format for the records of members. Consequently, a loose system of record keeping developed. Information was written on any type of paper that was available and then, in most cases, compiled in notebooks or some other kind of container. With no discipline attached to the system many of these early records were lost, destroyed or stolen.¹ This has left very few membership records for the first twenty years of the Church's existence. The bulk of information that is available for these two decades is recorded in historical records that were kept in minute books and member's journals.

In 1846 the Council of the Twelve Apostles, no doubt sensing the disorganized state of Church records, directed the Church Historian "to issue a form to the bishops that their reports might be made uniformly."² President Brigham Young, who was present at this meeting, "desired the bishops to report the organizations of their wards, their business, number of men, women and children, how many sick, tithing paid, etc., with the totals that their records can be seen at a glance."³ There is no record of this "form" ever being issued. Within seven weeks of this meeting of the Twelve the first Saints had been driven out of Nauvoo and were camped in Iowa. If this untimely departure had not occurred when it did, it is possible that the more sophisticated reporting systems of the twentieth century might well have been started much earlier.

Membership Record Books, 1877-1940

When the Latter-day Saints arrived in Utah their concern, of necessity, was occupied with conquering the desert. It was not until the year of Brigham Young's death, 1877, that the Church introduced the first uniform system for keeping records. Referred to as the "Long Book," this record of membership called for such information as:

A. Membership record number.
B. Person's name.
C. Father's name.
D. Mother's maiden name.
E. Date and place of birth.
F. Date blessed and by whom.
G. Date baptized and by whom.
H. Date confirmed and by whom.
I. Date ordained, to what office and by whom.
J. Date rebaptized and by whom.
K. Date reconfirmed and by whom.
L. Date received into ward and where from.

M. Date removed from ward and where moving to.

N. Date of death.

O. Remarks.

This was not an ideal form, however, because of the book's bulk. It was over four feet long when opened. Another problem with the "long book" was that:

... frequently more than one membership record book was kept in each ward, e.g., records of members and records of baptisms were kept in one book; records of children, births, and blessings in another; records of priesthood ordinations in another. Sometimes these events were recorded in the same book; but divisions were made in the book and events were recorded chronologically by date in the respective divisions. 4

During this period, the book itself was not the only deterrent to an efficient record keeping system.

After 1877, notices were issued intermittently from the General Authorities giving specific instructions concerning types of books and forms to be used and information to be recorded. Some ward (branch) clerks did not conform to the recommended instructions; some may not have received the instructions, or they received instructions some time after they were to become effective. The books and forms that were recommended were not printed by one publishing company nor distributed by the Church from one distribution center. The books and forms were printed locally resulting in slight variations from locality to locality. . . . 5

Early in 1900 the Church introduced a smaller sized 5Ibid.

membership record. Known as the "short form," it contained the same general information as its predecessor. In addition, it was indexed and had three parts which contained:

A. Part I—Record of members.

1. Membership record number.
2. Person's name.
3. Father's name.
4. Mother's maiden name.
5. Date and place of birth.
6. Date baptized and by whom.
7. Date confirmed and by whom.

B. Part II—Record of ordinations to the priesthood.

1. Record of ordination number.
2. Membership record number (from Part I).
3. Person's name.
4. Dates ordained, to what office and by whom.
5. Remarks.

C. Part III—Record of children under 8 years of age and not baptized.

1. Record of child number.
2. Child's name.
3. Date and place of birth.
4. Father's name.
5. Mother's maiden name.
6. Date blessed and by whom.
7. Remarks.
8. Transferred to record of members number.
   (This was used when a child was baptized and added to Part I.)

In 1920 a new membership record book took the information that was called for in the three parts of the "short form" and combined it into one section. The following new information was added:

A. Date received and from what ward.
B. Date removed and to what ward.
C. Missionary information.
D. Married to whom.
   1. Temple marriage.
   2. Civil marriage.
E. Date excommunicated.
F. Date and cause of death.

The major advantage to this change was that it did away with duplicating information and put all the material about a person into one area of the book. This arrangement was easier and less complicated to use.
Loose-leaf System, 1941-1973

In 1941 the Church settled on the record format that was used for the next three decades. It consisted of a sheet 8-1/2 x 5" (see Appendix F) which could be kept alphabetically in a loose-leaf binder. When a baby was born or when a convert was baptized into the Church the form was filled out in duplicate, the white copy being kept in the person's home ward and the green copy sent to the Presiding Bishop's Office (PBO) at Church headquarters. These were arranged alphabetically and resulted in a master file of LDS Church members. When a person left his home ward temporarily the white copy remained there and a pink duplicate copy was forwarded to the ward of temporary residence. If a person moved from the ward permanently, the white copy of his membership record was sent to the PBO and then forwarded to the new ward.

The master file was updated from these white copies which were received for forwarding and from the Form E reports [see next section] which came to the PBO at the end of every year. Following a person's death the white copy was sent to the PBO. The green copy was brought up to date and then the white copy was forwarded to the Church Historical Department and placed in the deceased members file.

The information called for included:

A. Person's name and address.
B. Parentage:
   1. Father's name.
   2. Mother's maiden name.

C. Date and place of birth.

D. Date blessed and by whom.

G. Dates ordained, to what office and by whom.

H. Date of Patriarchal blessing and by whom.

   1. Date left.
   2. Date returned.
   3. To what mission.

L. Spouse's name and Church affiliation.

M. Date and place of marriage.

N. Names of children of above marriage.
   1. Date and place of birth.
   2. Whom they married or remarks.

Computerized System, 1973-

In the early 1970's the Church changed its records, both on general and local levels, to a computerized system. This change was described as "vital to the progress of record keeping in the Church."6

The Automated Membership System (AMS) is the process of taking vital information related to Church members and typing it onto various forms. The various forms are fed into a computer, and the computer records and reorganizes the vital information.7

This data is then printed out on "Member Information Records" (MIR's) and sent to the various wards and stakes of the Church.

6John H. Vandenberg, "Automated Membership System—Introduction Booklet" (Salt Lake City: The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 1972), p. 3.

7Ibid.
When placed in the recommended binder, the MIR's become a master file of all members in the local unit.

This computerized system was designed to do four basic things for the record keeping phase of Church activity:

1. Increase the accuracy of the information recorded on the MIR.
2. Decrease the time needed to transfer the MIR's from place to place.
3. Improve the efficiency of reporting membership information.
4. Make possible the collection of meaningful statistics for Church leaders. 8

FORM E

A very important phase of the Church's Membership Record Program is in getting the necessary information concerning changes in the status of members into the PBO's master file. One important channel for this from stakes and wards has been the annual "Form E" Report (see Appendix F) introduced in 1907. A corresponding report, Form 42FP, recorded similar data from missions and branches.

---

8 Ibid.
Still in use in the 1970's, the Form E was an annual compilation of important data about the members of the Church.

As each event occurred it was recorded by the ward clerk on the Form E. At the end of the calendar year the clerk forwarded the Form E to the stake clerk, who compiled a summary of all the statistics in the stake. He then sent the summary and the ward Form E's to the PBO.

CONCLUSION

Since the Church's organization in 1830, records have been kept that have sought to list the names of Church members and give an accounting of their "faith and works." As the Church expanded in membership, better and more efficient means of record keeping were developed. In 1941 a loose leaf system replaced the membership books and in 1973 a computer program was introduced to further enhance Church record keeping procedures. A large master file of all Church members is in the possession of the Presiding Bishop's Office in Salt Lake City. The basic method for reporting membership information to the PBO is the annual Form E report. A new computerized system of record keeping will do away with Form E and will improve the current methods for compiling data.

With every technological advancement that man makes, the Church will have a new idea available to add to its continually progressing record keeping systems.
Chapter 5

PRIESTHOOD REPORTS

To accomplish the goals of the Church, two types of organization have been established.

First, priesthood quorums. These are "groups of men who hold a given priesthood office. The organization and basic purposes of these quorums and offices were largely set forth..."¹ in Sections 20 and 107 of the D&C. Second is auxiliary organizations. They will be discussed in Chapter 6.

Two orders of priesthood are spoken of in the scriptures. First is the Melchizedek or "higher priesthood," for worthy adult male members of the Church over the age of 18. Second is the Aaronic Priesthood for worthy young men in the Church between the ages of 12 and 18 (D&C 20 and 107).

Since the priesthood is the basic organization of the Church, many of the reports discussed in other chapters will contain data that applies to the priesthood. This chapter will analyze only those reports or major sections of reports that deal specifically with the priesthood quorums of the stakes and wards.

Form J, Annual Statistical Report, 1910-1938

The earliest reports which did not specifically separate the two orders of priesthood began in 1910 as part of the Form J, Annual Statistical Report (see Appendix E). The following data was itemized by quorums with a stake total. The years in parenthesis indicate when that particular item was added.

AARONIC PRIESTHOOD

Aaronic Priesthood reports are similar in content to the Melchizedek Priesthood reports. They too stress enrollment and activity statistics. The focus of this section will be on major deviations from the Melchizedek Priesthood report's format. A selected cross-section of these reports is included in Appendix G of this thesis.

Annual Report of the Aaronic Priesthood, 1903-1909

The earliest Aaronic Priesthood reports on file in the Church Archives were for 1903-1909. In 1903 it was a series of questions on enrollment and quorum organization broken down by individual quorums. By 1909 it also stressed causes of increase and decrease in enrollment.
Form J, Annual Statistical Report, 1910-1938

In 1910 the Aaronic Priesthood Annual Report was incorporated into the Form J. It was almost identical to the previous report. In 1916 the form focused on attendance, types of activity and reasons for inactivity (see Appendix E). The special Aaronic Priesthood report was discontinued on Form J during the 1920's. It was reinitiated from 1930-1938. During this period special questions were added to the form to distinguish adult bearers of this priesthood for the youth.

Stake and Ward Quarterly Reports, 1923-1938

In 1923 the Quarterly Statistical Reports included a special report exclusively for the Aaronic Priesthood (see Appendix G). It was similar to the Form J.

Stake Monthly Reports for Aaronic Priesthood Youth, 1941-1967

Introduced in 1941 this monthly report included both youth and adult data until 1944. In that year separate forms were used for each group. The Youth Report (see Appendix G) stressed:

1. Enrollment.

2. Average attendance, percentage attendance at:
   a. Priesthood meeting.
   b. Sacrament meeting.
c. Sunday School.

d. YMMIA.

3. Quorum organization.

4. Number of assignments filled.

Stake Monthly Report—Senior
Members of Aaronic
Priesthood, 1944-1967

In 1944 a separate report for senior members of the Aaronic Priesthood was initiated (see Appendix G). It included information in the total activity of these men, including:

1. Enrollments.

2. Attendance.

3. Assignments.

4. New members.

5. Advancements.

6. Personal visits to them.

SUMMARY

With importance placed on the priesthood organization in the Church, records of priesthood enrollment in these quorums has been stressed on Church reports. General statistical reports dating back to 1852 included priesthood enrollment by office (see chapter 3). Around the turn of the twentieth century the first formal priesthood reports were issued. In addition to enrollment they focused in on attendance. Around 1940 these reports became monthly and quarterly instead of yearly. In 1967, Aaronic and Melchizedek Priesthood information was incorporated into the Correlated Report (see chapter 7).
Chapter 6

AUXILIARY REPORTS

In the Church there have been the following auxiliary organizations:

1. Relief Society.
2. Sunday School.
3. Young Women's Mutual Improvement Association (YWMIA).
4. Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association (YMMIA).
5. Primary.

These units were designed to assist the priesthood quorums in accomplishing the goals of the Church. "Much of their work is temporary in that it will be absorbed in due course by the priesthood organizations."\(^1\) In 1972 the YWMIA and YMMIA were absorbed into the priesthood organization. They will be discussed with the auxiliaries, however, because this change occurred so recently.

RELIEF SOCIETY

The main auxiliary of the Church is the Relief Society. An organization for adult women, it is the female counterpart of the priesthood. Organized in 1842, it is the oldest auxiliary in the Church.

The Relief Society started compiling an annual report in 1842, but it dealt primarily with financial items. Not until 1914 did this report consistently include statistical information about its members on an actual form.

Statistical and Financial Report, 1880-1881

One earlier form was used in 1880-1881. Called the "Statistical and Financial Report of the Relief Society," it included this statistical data:

1. Teachers.
2. Members.
3. Total officers and members.
4. Meetings held.
5. Average attendance.
6. Church papers.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

The second auxiliary to be adopted by the Church was the Sunday School. The meetings of this organization were held in Ohio and Illinois on an irregular basis. The first Mormon Sunday School in the Rocky Mountains convened in 1849 in the home of Richard Ballantyne. Soon other Sunday Schools were set up on a local basis with no formal organization.

In 1867, however, Brigham Young authorized the establishment of the Sunday School Union Society. In 1872, the name was changed to the Deseret Sunday School Union. In that same year the first Sunday School annual report forms were issued (see Appendix H).

Annual Reports, 1872-1958

These forms, the first ones used by any auxiliary, called for the following information:

1. Number of schools.
2. Number of schools not reported.
3. Number of teachers—by male and female and total.

In 1878, a page of instructions was included. The following year, a recapitulation of the year's statistics was published in a Sunday School sponsored magazine, The Juvenile Instructor.

The form changed with the addition or deletion of certain classes from the Sunday School curriculum. By 1957, the enrollment and average attendance were called for by classes as well as the unit total.

Monthly Reports, 1959-1964

In 1959, the annual report was discontinued and a monthly report was used until 1964. Where the annual report stressed enrollment and attendance at Sunday School, the monthly report was more concerned with organizational mechanics. The report remained substantially the same for all five years of its use and included these items:

YOUNG WOMEN'S MUTUAL IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

The Young Women's Mutual Improvement Association was organized in Utah by President Brigham Young in 1869. Originally called the Young Ladies' Department of the Cooperative Retrenchment Association, the organization was created to help the young LDS women to gain testimonies of the gospel.

In 1907 the first official report form of the Young Women's Mutual Improvement Association was issued. It was a one page report which was more concerned with the mechanics of operating the organization than it was with the personal welfare of the young women involved (see Appendix H).

YOUNG MEN'S MUTUAL IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

On June 10, 1875, a fourth auxiliary, the Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association, was organized to strengthen the young men of the Church just as the Young Women's Mutual Improvement Association strengthened the young women.

The first annual Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association report forms were issued in 1910 and called for the same basic information as in the Young Women's Mutual Improvement Association reports discussed above (see Appendix H).

The YMMIA reports were broken down by wards from the beginning in 1910, whereas the YWMIA reports did not do this until 1940.

In 1967 the YMMIA Annual Reports were incorporated into the Correlated Report (see chapter 7).

PRIMARY

In 1878 the Primary Association was formed as an organization for young Latter-day Saint children. In 1891 the first annual "Report of the Primary Associations" was issued. From then until 1943 a yearly form was used. From 1943 to 1950 there were monthly, quarterly, nine-month and summer reports used. The information called for was substantially the same in all cases. There were no Primary reports on file in the Church Historical Department from September 1, 1950 to August 31, 1959. From September 1, 1959, until the start of the correlated report in 1967 the Primary used an annual report again.

CONCLUSION

The earliest formal organizational reports in the Church were auxiliary reports. They have all stressed the same basic information as the priesthood reports, i.e., enrollment, attendance and activity. Some auxiliary data was included on the statistical reports (see chapter 3). The Aaronic Priesthood reports contained information on Sunday School and YMMIA attendance. In 1967 auxiliary information was included on the correlated report (see chapter 7). By 1973 these organizations were no longer issuing their own statistical reports.
Chapter 7

CORRELATED REPORTS

In the early 1960's, after years of planning and experimenting, the Church initiated a program of priesthood correlation. In describing its advent, President Marion G. Romney said:

Church correlation did not spring forth Minerva-like in the mid-1960's. It was born of necessity and after a long history of trial and error.

Its objective, as I understand it, is to so relate Church agencies, Priesthood and auxiliary, that all members of the Church will be, through them, taught the gospel, both activities and theology, in the most effective and harmonious manner.¹

Coordinating the priesthood and auxiliary courses of study was the first of many steps toward the total correlation of all Church activities under the direction of the priesthood.

In 1967 the correlation program carried over into Church reports with the introduction of the correlated report. The idea behind this new system was to put all information, statistical, priesthood and auxiliary, onto one report. At the time this went into effect, the Church published the following explanation:

Effective September 1, 1967, a correlated reporting system will be implemented for reporting priesthood and auxiliary activities.

Reports from each... group in the ward will be given to the ward clerk. He will assemble them into a unified correlated report... (which) after being approved by the bishop will be forwarded to the stake. The stake clerk will then prepare a stake report to be approved by the stake president.\textsuperscript{2}

It is the first time there has been a unified system of reporting throughout the Church.

This new system, if properly followed, will give important information and statistics to General Authorities, stake and mission headquarters in prompt and orderly fashion.\textsuperscript{3}

The value of this new report was three-fold. First, it coordinated all reports under the direction of the ward and stake clerks. Second, it established lines of communication through, not around, the priesthood leaders of the Church. Third, it provided Church leaders with a set of meaningful statistics to use in evaluating the progress of the organizations under their direction.

ELEVEN PAGE REPORT, 1967-1972

From 1967 to 1972, the report was eleven pages long and was compiled and sent in monthly from September 1 to August 31 of the following year (see Appendix I). It was itemized by individual wards within a stake and included a stake total and percentage

There were three levels involved with this reporting process: the organization or quorum to the ward, the ward to the stake, and the stake to the general church. All three levels received the exact same information and that there was still an emphasis on organizations and not individuals.

In the 1972-73 correlated year, the MIA program was dropped as an auxiliary and was incorporated directly into the Aaronic priesthood program. At that same time, the responsibility for working with adult bearers of the Aaronic priesthood was given to the elders quorum, where they became known as "prospective elders."

These changes had a direct affect on the correlated report. The YMMIA page was combined with the Aaronic priesthood page and the Aaronic Priesthood-Adult information became part of the Melchizedek priesthood page. The deletion of these two areas cut the report to nine pages.

The format for the entire report was altered but the information called for remained basically the same.

THREE-PAGE REPORT, 1973-

In 1973, a further reduction of the form to three pages took place. While introducing this new report, Elder Boyd K. Packer of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles stressed that there was also a change of focus for the new forms.

. . . This system contemplates that we will report on the activity of individuals, not on the status of organizations. That means it will be easier to find them; it will be harder for them to get lost. Now, with that being true, even if we added to the reports, it would be an improvement if we could get to where we are counting individuals and looking after them.

Now, the criteria of the reporting system: (1) It is individual and not organizational. That is, even with this extensive report, all we can conclude when we are through with all of this is how the individual is doing in that one organization. We still do not know the extent of their other Church participation. In this report you will be able to see at a glance by individual and by age group on the appropriate level how the Church is doing in all of the organizations that are serving him. "We are blind," paraphrasing the poet, "unless we see that in this universal plan, nothing is worth the making, if it does not build the man. Why build these programs glorious if man unbuilted goes. In vain we build this Church unless the member also grows."

(2) These reports are informational; not motivational. To report it; to get them to do it. Now, that has been the theory behind a lot of this, that if you ask them to report it, they would have to do it. That is a theory which is demonstrably false. If it were true, all that we have been doing and all that we were requiring should have perfected us years ago. The reports now are informational. President Lee, in his sermon, talked about the gathering of information. These reports will be purely informational.

(3) These reports will stop on the level of their use. Generally speaking, most of what was collected came into general Church headquarters through all the channels. Now, the basic reports on individuals will stop at the ward level where they are useful. There will be an accumulation by age groups and categories to go to the stake and then a compilation of the total that will come into general Church headquarters.

Now, in putting all this together, there has been this rule followed very vigorously. In order to survive as an item in the report it had to be more than interesting; it had to be more than useful. It had to be proved essential so that you will have the basic essential information.

The number of pages changed on all levels at this time.

The wards received eight pages of data, but sent only one page to the stakes. They in turn sent only three pages to the general church (see Appendix I).

The stake forms were itemized with stake and individual ward totals for number and percent. It included the following:

CONCLUSION

In 1967, the correlated reporting system was introduced for Church-wide use. It brought together on the same report all Priesthood quorums and auxiliary organizations. At first the form stressed organizational mechanics, but in 1973 a shift in emphasis was achieved. The reports began to focus "on the activity of individuals [and] not on the status of organizations."\textsuperscript{5} The goal of the Church had ever been to exalt the individual member, now the Church's reporting system truly reflected and strengthened this goal.

Chapter 8

SUMMARY

In the first four decades of the Church's existence, the reporting systems were informal. Important data about stakes and wards were submitted to Church headquarters orally or as part of the unit's annual history. From time to time, specific items were requested and returned in personal correspondence between general Church authorities and local leaders. After the arrival of the Latter-day Saints in Utah, a columned form with handwritten headings was used to report the number of persons enrolled in the various priesthood quorums and the number of specific ordinances performed. The history of official printed report forms may be divided into four periods.

1877-latter Nineteenth Century

The period from 1867 to 1878 was full of important organizational developments in the Church. In December, 1867, the Relief Society, whose meetings were held at best only irregularly in Utah, was organized on a Church-wide scale. From then until 1878, the other four priesthood auxiliaries were organized or reorganized throughout the Church.
In 1877 great effort was taken to complete the local ecclesiastical organizations. On July 11 of that year the First Presidency of the Church issued a circular letter that has been described as "... one of the most important documents in Mormon history. It marked the turning point in the organizational patterns of the Church. ..."¹ Until this time many of the stakes were presided over by members of the Council of the Twelve Apostles. These General Authorities were released in 1877 and replaced by local leaders. Wards and priesthood quorums were also reorganized. From this time on there was only one high priests quorum per stake. Quarterly conferences were reemphasized. Young men began to receive regular ordinations to the Aaronic Priesthood and children received the sacrament in Sunday School.² Thus these organizational changes affected all age levels of Church membership. They signalled the end of the pioneer era and the beginning of a more established period in the Church.

At this time reports also entered their first formal period. In 1872 the first auxiliary reports were issued by the Sunday School. The year 1877 is of prime importance to the ²Ibid., pp. 284-88.

Church's formal reporting systems. The First Presidency's Circular letter of that year emphasized "that every member of the Church [should] have his name enrolled in the church record of the ward and stake in which he lives. . . ." The letter continued:

Reports should be made, giving the number of members and officers, . . . the number of families, the number of ordinations, of baptisms, of excommunications and births and deaths, with the sex and age of both of the latter. . . . In each ward a record of all these matters must be kept and . . . a transcript of these records should be handed to the President of the stake, whose duty it is to compile the same for record. A report should be made by the President of each stake to the First Presidency.³

To expedite this directive, two devices were introduced in 1877. The first was the "Long Book." This record of membership was kept in all wards and included the enrollment and ordinance information that was requested by the First Presidency.

The second was an updated version of the "Stake Quarterly Report." It, too, contained the requested data and was sent in to Church headquarters.

These two items, the "Long Book" and the "Stake Statistical Report" were the first formal instruments used by the Church to measure enrollment and ordinance data. They came as part of a general movement in the Church for more effective local ecclesiastical organization. They both were used until around 1900.

³Ibid.
Early Twentieth Century

As the twentieth century dawned, there was great optimism in the Church for a bright future. During the first decade of the century, there was expanded interest in Church activity. For example, when Joseph F. Smith became President of the Church, he also assumed the role of General Superintendent of the Sunday School and Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association. With this move, the auxiliaries began to stress activity. Formal class instruction was begun in the Relief Society. The MIA and Sunday School separated the various age groups into "graded" classes for instruction. Parents class was added to the Sunday School curriculum. The Church made notable progress during this time and the auxiliaries kept up with this progressive era.

This was also a period of reemphasizing the work of the priesthood. The First Presidency urged local leaders to hold priesthood meeting on a weekly basis. Uniform courses of study were added to the Melchizedek Priesthood program. Ordination to the various offices in the Aaronic Priesthood started to take place at specific ages.

This decade of progress in Church programs was also reflected in the reports of the period. In March of 1900 a smaller size membership book was adopted for general use throughout the Church. This "short form" replaced the "long book" which had been bulky and difficult to handle.
A new statistical report, Form J, was introduced along with Form E. The latter stressed changes in the status of individual church members such as births, marriages, ordinations, etc. The YWMIA and the YMMIA issued their first annual reports during this period, and the Primary expanded the number of items on its form.

During this time the reports reflected the change in emphasis. Not only did the Church want to account for each of its members, but also for the degree of activity exhibited by them. Attendance began to be stressed.

With the organizational changes that took place in this decade a renewed emphasis was placed on development of local stakes, wards and quorums. This was also reflected in the reports since much of the data required on the forms was to reveal the status of organizations. These trends in reporting procedures continued to the mid-1960's.

Mid-twentieth Century

In the period just following World War I, there was a relocation of population in America. Urban areas rapidly increased while rural areas saw a sharp decline. The Church was also affected by this movement. In the 1920's and 1930's there was a dispersion of the Latter-day Saints from Utah, Idaho and Arizona into other regions where new job opportunities awaited them. The Great Depression of the 1930's caused an increase in Mormon migration, especially to California. By 1940, there were over twenty stakes outside the Intermountain Region.

This dispersion to outlying areas created an increased need for the Church to more thoroughly supervise the local units. To facilitate this, in 1935, the First Presidency and the Quorum of the Twelve were released as leaders of the auxiliaries. Six years later, Assistants to the Twelve were called, expanding the number of General Authorities.

During this period, Church reports began to reflect the need for more thorough local supervision. The annual Form J statistical report was discontinued and a new monthly report was introduced. The Presiding Bishop's Office also issued a new monthly Aaronic Priesthood form. A partial shift from annual to monthly reports filled the Church's needs at that time.

The year 1941 also saw the introduction of a record of membership format that was used for over thirty years. When a member changed residence, these 8-1/2" x 5" forms were forwarded to his new ward, helping to better keep track of members involved in the population dispersion.

Later-twentieth Century

In the 1960's and early 1970's there was a shift in the moral tone of the United States. Wide scale immorality and social unrest created a need for family unity as never felt before. During this time, the Church, after years of trial and error, embarked on a program to correlate all Church activity under the direction of the priesthood. The correlation program stressed the need for solidarity in the home with the father, as the priesthood bearer, at the head of the family. The program was designed to focus attention on the individual Church member.

With the old moral and social structures in the world crumbling around him, the individual member needed to look to the Church for strength as never before.

In 1967 the priesthood and auxiliary information was brought together into one report. Called the Correlated Reporting System, it was designed to aid leaders of the Church at each level to measure the progress and activity of those under their direction. The report at first still stressed the status of organizations instead of individuals. Then in 1973, the report was cut to three pages at the stake level with the focus squarely on the needs of individual Church members.

In 1972, a computerized record system replaced the 8-1/2" x 5" membership cards. This new system was designed to increase the accuracy of the membership data and the efficiency with which it was reported. If used properly it would decrease the time needed to transfer the information from place to place as a member changed his place of residence. It also made possible a collection of meaningful statistics for Church leaders.

Like the correlated report, this "Automated Membership System" was designed to better focus attention on each person in the Church.

FINDINGS

From the data gathered in this study the following findings were obtained:

1. The holy scriptures counsel the Church to keep records of its members and their activity.

2. The earliest Church reports dealt with enrollment and vital data.

3. Around the turn of the twentieth century these reports also began to stress attendance and organizational status.

4. Around 1940 the Church began calling for reports more frequently than once a year.

5. In the 1960's and 1970's all previous reports, except the Form E, were incorporated into the Correlated Reporting System.

6. In the 1970's the formal reporting system of the

Church shifted its emphasis to the activity of the individual member.

7. Church reports are a reflection of the changes of emphasis in Church programs and organizations.

CONCLUSIONS

From the data gathered in this study the following conclusions are presented:

1. The Church urges accuracy from local units of organization to keep accurate records of members.

2. The Church strives to find better, more efficient and less time consuming means of reporting data.

3. The Church is constantly upgrading the quality of its reports and their usefulness for Church leaders.

USEFUL STATISTICS

Prior to the initiation of the Correlated Report, the level of Church activity was measured on individual priesthood and auxiliary reports. If a researcher wished to trace the activity of female members, he could consult Relief Society reports. Youth activity was measured by Aaronic Priesthood, MIA and Sunday School reports (when done by age groups). The correlated form brought all the information about an age level to one section of the same report. This made compiling useful activity statistics much easier.

Comparing useful statistics allows the reader to measure Church trends. To aid in this process, the author has compiled a chart of the location of important data prior to the correlated report. It contains examples of important statistics for measuring Church progress and what forms they were reported on (see Appendix D).

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR FUTURE STUDY

This thesis has opened the way for future study in many areas.

As stated in the introduction, David Mayfield of the Church Library Staff has suggested making a master file of every report the Church has ever used. This would enable the student to see exactly when changes were made in the reports.

Students interested in Church programs as well as in sociology, economics, family relations, etc. could examine the actual statistics and measure the long range growth patterns of activity.

One area not covered by the thesis is financial reports. The author believes that a full thesis could be written on this subject.

Another thesis could be done on proselyting activities of full-time missionaries as reflected in their reports.

Reports prior to the use of official printed forms is another area open for study as is minutes of meetings and other non-form reports.

The writer would also strongly recommend that the Church Historical Department require a higher quality of work from its microfilmers. Many reports, even recent ones, are extremely difficult to read. Serious consideration should be given to re-doing much of the microfilming.

The Formal Reporting System of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints provides a gold-mine of information for researchers.

"How to Use Records and Reports"

by

Delbert L. Stapley

The Improvement Era, LXXII (August, 1969), 16-18.
HOW TO USE RECORDS AND REPORTS

One definition of the word record reads: "To put in some permanent form; keep for remembrance." Another, "to set down in writing so as to keep for future use."

The messages of the prophets remind us that records among God's people have two primary purposes:

1. To help people develop spiritually and progress toward immortality and a glorious eternal life.

2. To serve as instruments in the hands of selected servants of God in judging people under their jurisdiction.

Some of the greatest of the prophets were authors and keepers of the records, including Moses, Samuel, Isaiah, Nephi, Mormon, Moroni, John, and Paul.

Records through the ages have been lasting communication lines between the Lord's prophets and his people. Through records people have been lifted to a greater knowledge of the Lord; they have learned his divine will and his plan and guideposts for journeying on the joyful path that leads back into his presence. It is important to stress this matter of communication. With good two-way channels of communication open and functioning, weaknesses may be avoided and strong points fortified.

But records are more than lines for lifting us heavenward. That brings us to their second primary purpose: to serve as instruments in the hands of selected servants of God in judging people under their jurisdiction.

To Nephi, the Lord spoke: "For I command all men, . . . that they shall write the words which I speak unto them; for out of the books which shall be written I will judge the world, every man according to their works, according to that which is written." (2 Ne. 29:11.)

In this dispensation, the Lord has said of the role of records in judging: ". . . and another book was opened, which was the book of life; but the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works. . . . And the book which was the book of life is the record which is kept in heaven. . . ." (D&C 128:7.)

Thus records have been important with God's people through the ages and are important today. They are vital to all who have positions of leadership in the Church, to help people in their quest toward eternal life and to assist in the judgment and judging in the kingdom.

It must always be remembered that records have never been the goal nor the end product in the Church, either ancient or restored. Rather, they have served as tools in the upbuilding of individuals and thereby the upbuilding of the kingdom of God.

Records are passive; reports are, or should be, alive and vibrant. Note one of the definitions of a report: "An account of something seen, heard, read, done, or considered." Notice that the verbs are all action words. Another definition reads: "An account officially expressed, generally in writing."

Reports need to be complete, accurate, legible, neat, and in on time; and they should provide information upon which valid decisions can be made. These would include copies of notes, minutes, statistical and other reports that are prepared by the clerks and secretaries and distributed to the administrative officers for study and consideration.

Reports should contain information on factors that will lead to action on the part of the leaders receiving them. A report should be in the best possible form for the presentation of the subject matter.

Reports are to be submitted to and used by the administrative officers of the wards and branches, the stakes and missions throughout the Church. It is the responsibility of these leaders to see that the reports are correctly completed.

It is also the responsibility of the presiding authority in every case to select and train those who will act on the reports as well as those who will prepare them. A strong leader knows that if he develops his associates, he will become even stronger.

Even greater attention will be given by the General
Authorities to the selection of stake administrative officers and clerks as they are chosen, sustained, and set apart. The responsibility each has toward the reports will be stressed at the time of the call. A good leader inspires other men and women with confidence in him; a great leader inspires them with confidence in themselves.

After proper and prayerful selection, the chosen stake clerks will train their assistants and they together will train the secretaries to the priesthood quorums and auxiliaries, as well as the ward clerks and their assistants. The ward clerks in turn will train their assistants and the secretaries to the Aaronic Priesthood quorums and the secretaries to the ward auxiliaries. The better informed these important workers are, the better jobs they will be able to perform, and time spent in training these people in the proper functioning of their work will be rewarded by better reports that will enable the administrative officers to do a better job.

Good reports spotlight the weak areas requiring attention and also point up the areas of strength. The leader can detect whether a unit is progressing or retrogressing, whether the people under his jurisdiction are developing spirituality or declining in spirituality. Accurate reports reveal the direction in which the organization is going, and emphasis should be placed constantly on the correct preparation of the reports and to assure that reports are submitted on or before the due date. Reports should be reviewed carefully and comments made in the space provided. This is the best evidence that the report has been studied and hopefully used.

An able leader uses reports as a mariner uses his compass: to check the course and to learn the direction in which he is traveling. Good reports can be the eyes of the administrators in watching the progress on the various church fronts that are his responsibility. The effective leader will study and review reports faithfully. As he studies good reports, he will see the figures and statistics come alive, and instead of numbers he may see that Jack Jones has not been graduated from Primary as a second class Scout, that he hasn't been ordained to the Aaronic Priesthood, nor has he started to attend MIA meetings.

A well-advised leader can advise his flock well. He can be specific in complimenting meritorious accomplishments and give pinpoint encouragement in instances where improvement can be attained or where more appropriate action is required.
Local leaders should study the reports diligently. They should have the facts and figures at all times. It may be well to remember the adage, "Leadership filters down from the top; it doesn't bubble up from the bottom."

With good records and reports, a leader can evaluate his own performance. He can compare the performance of his people now in contrast to a month ago, a year ago, or even two years ago or longer. Someone has said, "Nothing is good or bad except by comparison." It is better to be one's own severest critic and to make comparisons with himself and his standards rather than with others. Here are some areas of comparison: The gospel teaches eternal progression. What progress are the Church members under my jurisdiction making? What percentage of them are attending sacrament meeting now, compared with a month ago? A year ago? Two years ago? What percentage of adult members are qualifying for temple recommends? What percentage of marriages are being performed in the temple? In which direction are we moving in the percentage of our youth attending seminary or institutes? These are merely examples; the properly prepared reports will reveal many other items of importance.

Statistical reports represent the actions of individuals, and we should ever be mindful that what matters is our concern with the child of God within our area of responsibility, and not the figure that represents him on the report.

There are other important considerations in the lives of individuals that concern the leader that are not reflected in the records or reports, but records and reports are yardsticks we need to use continually for measuring performance.

A leader who leads without using his records and reports is like a pilot flying without instruments. He should question the trends shown in the reports and ask why. Then he can make the necessary moves to strengthen the situation or situations.

An effective and dedicated leader will set goals for himself. Once he determines through a study of the reports where his organization has been going in certain areas of performance, he can weigh where he wants to go in helping people grow spiritually.

Through the use of written reports the leader can review on a month-to-month basis the big picture of the entire program of the Church, as it seeks to exalt the individual. Records and reports help the wise leader to keep the program in proper balance and relationship.

In the divine plan of things, the individual is supreme. The programs of the Church and the reports of their functioning are aimed to help each member of the Church enjoy a more meaningful life here and hereafter. This will be accomplished as we improve our lines of communications; a well-informed worker is a more effective worker.

Reports of the various activities of the Church come together at the intersection of the bishop's desk. Under priesthood correlation the bishop becomes more interested in individuals than in programs, even though the church programs are vitally necessary. He will be more interested in filling their needs and in helping them move heavenward than in turning in a favorable statistical report. He will review the reports in terms of what the activities in his ward are doing toward uplifting individuals. He will study the figures as symbols of souls. He will probe beyond those symbols and into the lives of the people he has been called to lead. Good reports will follow good activity; good reports will reflect the performance of dedicated members.

A wise bishop will use reports for guidance in his oral evaluations with priesthood leaders. He will use reports for his discussions at ward executive and council meetings. He will use the records to inquire about specific families, both the active and the inactive. He will use the figures to help guide him and his associates in making the moves necessary for building souls.

The stake president similarly will want to probe with his bishops and priesthood leaders beyond the reports. He will want to know how each bishop is meeting the responsibility of planning for and meeting the needs of the people in his ward. Regional Representatives of the Twelve will likewise inquire how a stake president is working with his bishops in serving his people.

Similarly, General Authorities, as they meet with Regional Representatives of the Twelve and stake presidents, will want to learn how programs are helping people.

But in all this effort to build souls, the time, the talent, and the energies of the leader will be far more productive if he studies, interprets, and wisely uses reports. These records will be more useful to him if they are accurate, complete, and punctual. The able leader will therefore choose capable record keepers. He will see that they are trained and that they know their duty fully.

Indeed, the first purpose of records and reports is to help every man and woman to grow through knowing Jesus the Christ and in following his plan toward perfection and eternal life. Moroni, one of the great recorders in the cause of the Lord, gave this counsel for all of us as he sealed up his record:

"Yea, come unto Christ, and be perfected in him, and deny yourselves of all ungodliness; and if ye shall deny yourselves of all ungodliness and love God with all your might, mind and strength, then is his grace sufficient for you, that by his grace ye may be perfect in Christ. . . ." (Moro. 10:32.)

I pray that the Lord will bless us that we may be equal to our tasks.

"Importance of Records and Record Keeping in The Church of Jesus Christ"

The Improvement Era, LIX (January, 1956), 49.
IMPORTANCE OF RECORDS AND RECORD KEEPING IN
THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST

IMPORTANCE OF KEEPING RECORDS

First—God's Commandments on Record Keeping:

a. Church records to be kept

As a part of the restoration of the gospel and the establishing of the Church and kingdom of God upon the earth in the latter days, Joseph Smith received several revelations from the Savior regarding record keeping. While the six young men were in session on April 6, 1830, organizing the Church of Jesus Christ in harmony with divine instructions, the Prophet Joseph Smith received a revelation, part of which states:

"Behold, there shall be a record kept among you; and in it thou shalt be called a seer, a translator, a prophet, an apostle of Jesus Christ, an elder of the church through the will of God the Father, and the grace of your Lord Jesus Christ." (D&C 21:1.)

b. Church historians and recorders

The first Church historian and recorder in this dispensation was Oliver Cowdery. He served until March 8, 1831, when he was replaced by John Whitmer, who received that appointment through special revelation from the Lord. We read in section forty-seven of the Doctrine and Covenants:

"Behold, it is expedient in me that my servant John should write and keep a regular history, and assist you, my servant Joseph, in transcribing all things which shall be given you, until he is called to further duties.

"And again, I say unto you that it shall be appointed unto him to keep the church record and history continually; for Oliver Cowdery I have appointed to another office.

"Wherefore, it shall be given him, inasmuch as he is faithful, by the Comforter, to write these things. Even so," Amen." (D&C 47:1, 3-4.)

c. Records of all Church members to be kept

During the month of April, 1830, the same month that the Church was organized, Joseph Smith received a revelation regarding the keeping of a record of all Church members and a record of transfers from branches or wards to other branches or wards (D&C 20:82-84). In the same revelation, instructions were given regarding taking the names from the general Church record of people who had been expelled or excommunicated from the Church.

d. Records of "all that transpires in Zion" to be kept

On November 27, 1832, still another revelation on record keeping was given by the Lord through the Prophet to members of the Church. This revelation dealt with a number of items in the newly founded kingdom. To quote:

"It is the duty of the Lord's clerk, whom he has appointed to keep a history, and a general church record of all things that transpire in Zion, and of all those who consecrate properties, and receive inheritances legally from the bishop;
"And also their manner of life, their faith, and works;
and also of the apostates who apostatize after receiving their inheritances." (D&C 85:1-2.)

The revelation continues by discussing the genealogies which should be kept and the various church records and history of the Church which should be written.

Second—Joseph Smith's Viewpoints on the Importance of Record Keeping in the Church:

a. Joseph Smith's viewpoint

On September 6, 1842, the Prophet Joseph Smith definitely pointed out that the records kept here on this earth would play a great part at the final judgment day, when members of the Church of Jesus Christ shall stand before the Lord to account for their works and lives while in mortality. The Prophet was discussing Revelation 20:12, which states: "And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened; and another book was open, which is the book of life; and the dead were judged out of these things which were written in the books, according to their works."

b. Joseph Smith quoted

"You will discover in this quotation that the books were opened; and another book was opened, which was the book of life; but the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works; consequently, the books spoken of must be the books which contained the record of their works, and refer to the records which are kept on the earth. And the book which was the book of life is the record which is kept in heaven; the principle agreeing precisely with the doctrine which is commanded you in the revelation contained in the letter which I wrote to you previous to my leaving my place—that in all your recordings it may be recorded in heaven.

"Now, the nature of this ordinance consists in the power of the priesthood, by the revelation of Jesus Christ, wherein it is granted that . . . whatsoever you record on earth shall be recorded in heaven, and whatsoever you do not record on earth shall not be recorded in heaven; for out of the books shall your dead be judged, according to their own works, whether they themselves have attended to ordinances in their own propria persona, or by the means of their agents, according to the ordinance which God has prepared for their salvation from before the foundation of the world, according to the records which they have kept concerning their dead." (D&C 128:7-8.)

c. Conclusion on revelations regarding record keeping

In light of what has been quoted from modern revelation, it is very evident that record keeping constitutes one of the important activities in the Church of Jesus Christ and that it is one of the Lord's requirements that the work be done efficiently and accurately. It is also requisite that careful record must be kept of the good works performed by members of the Church of Jesus Christ in order that their names may be written "... in the book of the law of God, saith the Lord of Hosts [D&C 85:5]," and thereupon be recorded in the "Lamb's Book of Life."

Third—Latter-day Saints, a Record-Keeping People:

a. A record-keeping people

From the days of the organization of the Church to the present time and acting in complete accordance with the numerous revelations received by Joseph, the Prophet, secretaries, clerks, and historians in all the stakes, wards, missions, and branches of the Church, have written and compiled numerous records. These have been collected and housed in the Church Historian's Library in Salt Lake City; and this work will continue to be carried forward. The result is that in a little over one hundred years' time, one of the largest manuscript libraries found in connection with any similar organization or institution has been accumulated. In this respect the writer believes that the Latter-day Saints have been obedient to the Lord's commandments, and thereby may be classed as a record-keeping people.

b. Individual Church members, record keepers

Many individuals in the Church also have been diligent in keeping their personal records and in working out their genealogies. The Prophet Joseph Smith set the example by having a daily journal kept of all of his activities in establishing the kingdom of God. Brigham Young and many others followed his example. Of course these prophets and presidents of the Church were so busy that it was necessary for clerks to do the recording of their numerous activities; however, from their journals and the journals of many other leading brethren and sisters of the Church, comprehensive Church histories are written and published. Few, if any, other groups of frontier peoples have been more devoted to writing journals and keeping records of all things that transpired among them than have the members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. It has resulted in numerous documents, journals, periodicals, histories, and other publications to be produced. Many of these have been collected in the Church Historian's Library, supplementing the manuscripts housed there. This library serves as a rich field in which research historians work.

Fourth—Importance of Record Keeping:

a. Records for the benefit of the dead

The revelations from the Lord on keeping records quoted in this article, point out some of the importance attached to record keeping in the Church; however, that subject can be elaborated somewhat.
Record keeping is of vital importance in genealogical work. The wonderful promise given by Malachi that Elijah would come in the latter days and "... turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers. ... [Malachi 4:6]" could not be fulfilled without records and the diligent work of researchers in that field, climaxed by temple work, constitutes one of the major programs in the Church of Jesus Christ. All of these records are of vital concern to those who work in the temples for salvation for the dead, as well as to the departed ones for whom the temple work is done.

b. Records for the benefit of the living

Record keeping is just as vital for those living in God's kingdom as it is for the dead. It is absolutely necessary to keep an accurate record of births, blessings of babies, baptisms, confirmations, transfers of members from one part of the Church to other localities, marriages, divorces, excommunications, and deaths. In addition to these items, activities of all the priesthood holders and quorums, as well as all the auxiliary organizations and other meetings held under Church direction, must be recorded accurately in order that the attendance, those who participate, and the things accomplished therein may be preserved.

c. Records of economic affairs must be kept

Records of the economic activities of the Church and of its members must be carefully kept. The "Book of the Law of the Lord" must contain an accurate account of payment of tithes, fast offerings, welfare contributions, ward maintenance, building assessments, and other financial aid given by faithful and humble Church members for the up-building of the kingdom of God here upon this earth. As a reward for all of these activities in connection with the living according to "every word that proceedeth forth from the mouth of God [D&C 84:44]," members of the Church of Jesus Christ prepare themselves against the great day when calamities come upon the earth and when the earth shall be consumed with fire; "for he that is tithed shall not be burned at his [Jesus'] coming," saith the Lord (D&C 64:1, 23-25). They shall rise with the just and shall dwell in the presence of God.

Fifth—Importance of the Calling of Quorum Secretaries:

Ofttimes a man who is appointed to the position of secretary of a Melchizedek quorum feels that his calling is of little importance and his contribution will be of little worth in the kingdom of God. The revelations from the Lord quoted in this article on the importance of record keeping should dissuade any discouraged quorum secretary from such erroneous thinking.

As has been pointed out, accurate and capable secretarial work is of great value in the Church of Jesus Christ. Men who hold the appointment of secretary of a Melchizedek Priesthood quorum, the position of ward clerk, or of stake clerk, or even secretarial jobs in the auxiliary organizations, have received signified appointments carrying definite responsibilities; and their labors will be accounted as of great worth to the furtherance of the kingdom. Therefore, it is advised that all quorum secretaries and others holding secretarial positions in any of the Church organizations be cognizant of the importance and responsibilities of their callings and be determined to do their work to the best of their abilities. Under such conditions, they may serve as valuable aids to stake presidencies, to bishoprics, to quorum presidencies, or to whoever may have been assigned to preside over them.

It would be difficult for the Church or the kingdom of God to be built in righteousness and to move forward in accordance with the Lord's divine design without expert secretarial work being done faithfully.

Sixth—Efficient Secretaries to be Appointed:

With the foregoing information in mind, stake presidencies are advised to select outstanding, capable, efficient, and honorable men to serve as stake clerks to keep the records on that level. Similar advice is extended to all quorum presidencies throughout the Church in the selection of quorum secretaries. Also, bishoprics should choose carefully men who are qualified, faithful, and efficient, with natural talents towards the work of keeping records and making reports, to serve as ward clerks. After these selections have been made, these brethren are to be set apart to their respective callings and given instructions regarding their activities. A careful check should be kept on their work with suggestions given from time to time. A vast amount of work and responsibility can be taken from the shoulders of presiding officers through the work of capable clerks and secretaries.

"New Correlated Reporting System"

by

Boyd K. Packer
REGIONAL REPRESENTATIVES OF THE TWELVE SEMINAR
April 4-5, 1973

Second General Session - April 5, 1973

WELCOME

PRESIDENT SPENCER W. KIMBALL: Brethren and Sisters, we are happy to spend this day in preparation for the great work that is before us. It is a real pleasure to have with us today the entire First Presidency, all of the Twelve, except Elder Hugh B. Brown, and most of the other General Authorities.

This is a great event each six months to meet all of you and to have with us the Presidency of the Church -- President Harold B. Lee, President Nathan Eldon Tanner, President Marion G. Romney -- and all of the other Brethren. We look forward each time to this provocative theme that President Lee always gives us, and then we study it and work on it for long periods afterwards. And so, this morning, again, we are to hear from the President of the Church, President Harold B. Lee.

PRESIDENT HAROLD B. LEE: (attached)

NEW CORRELATED REPORTING SYSTEM:

ELDER BOYD K. PACKER: I have a very happy assignment -- to announce the conclusion of what I think might well be termed one of the most difficult of all tasks relating to correlation. It has been eight years in preparation--the last five years of intensive activity as referred to this morning by President Lee--and we are announcing that beginning September 1, 1973 the new system of correlated reports will be introduced Churchwide. It has been tested in many stakes and has since last September been in operation in all of the stakes outside of the United States and Canada.

I might mention this. There is a change in approach to reporting. If you can understand this, you will understand the basis of what we will be doing. This system contemplates that we will report on the activity of individuals, not on the status of organizations. That means it will be easier to find them; it will be harder for them to get lost. Now, with that being true, even if we added to the reports, it would be an improvement if we could get to where we are counting individuals and looking after them.

Recently a certified public accountant who is a stake clerk said, "With all my professional training, I cannot do an adequate job of compiling the reports presently required in my stake in a 40-hour week." Now, in answer to that, let me bring you up to date.

About eight years ago the reporting system was organized as the correlated reports then consisting of 11 pages. Two years ago it was reduced to 9 pages. In the system that will be operative beginning September 1, a further reduction has taken place: the nine-page ward report which presently consists of 731 entries will consist of one page--a reduction of eight pages and of 245 entries. The stake report, nine pages presently calling for 4909 entries, will be reduced to three pages of 1794 entries. The 4909 entries accumulated takes something in excess of 8000 mathematical computations each month in the stake.

On the general level, when this reporting goes into effect, it will have the benefit of 131,000 fewer 8½" x 11" pages flowing to the Presiding Bishopric annually. The reporting, much like 250 items of paper reports like that we have had. Incidentally, this all contemplates the substantial growth of the Church; even with the growth of the Church there will be that reduction.

The entire reporting system: (copy attached - you have a copy in the back section of your binder.) The only thing that you would need in a ward is the duplication of several of these pages for each of the classes. But basically, this is the reporting system for the ward and for the stake and that which comes to general Church headquarters. There are ten items. In the introduction of this there will be 52 stock items that will be obsolete in Church Distribution.

Now, by way of example, I have here the reporting system for one auxiliary that has been used until the present. There are 34 items. One of them, 75 pages, others of them up to 50 pages. All of this is presently required to be filled out in some startling detail for the operation of one of the auxiliaries. That is all replaced by this one page, and I might mention in passing that this is not the auxiliary that has the most extensive reporting system. We just chose this one as the sample.

The cost in paper alone will be reduced in excess of a quarter of a million dollars annually in this revision of reports.

Now, the criteria of the reporting system: (1) It is individual and not organizational. That is, even with this extensive report, all we can conclude when we are through with all of this is doing in that one organization. We still do not know the extent of their other Church participation. In this report, I will be able to see at a glance by individual and by age group on the appropriate level how the Church is doing in all of the organizations that are serving him. "We are blind," paraphrasing the poet, "unless we see that in this universal plan, nothing is worth the making, if it does not build the man. Why build these programs glorious if man unbuilded goes. In vain we build this Church unless the members also grow."

(2) These reports are informational; not motivational. To report it; to get them to do it. Now, that has been the theory behind a lot of this, that if you ask them to report it, they would have to do it. That is a theory which is demonstrably false. If it were true, all that we have been doing and all that we were requiring should have perfected us years ago. The reports now are informational. President Lee, in his sermon, talked about the gathering of information. These reports will be purely informational.

(3) These reports will stop on the level of their use. Generally speaking, most of what was collected came into general Church headquarters through all the channels. Now, the basic reports on individuals will stop at the ward level where they are useful. There will be an accumulation by age groups and categories to go to the stake and then a compilation of the total that will come into general Church headquarters.

Now, in putting all this together, there has been this rule followed very vigorously. In order to survive as an item in the report it had to be more than interesting; it had to be more than useful. It had to be proved essential so that you will have the basic essential information.

Next, what can you do to support it? We suppose that this reporting system is not perfect and that it will undergo some revision. It will be easy to review because it is so small. It can be changed as we need to add items. So we are asking that you support it. You have the whole thing there, and it is worth thirty minutes of your time to sit down and go through it. If you will read the brief instructional book, I think you will find that you will know more about each individual, you will know more about the boy and whether he is in seminary and taking care of his Aaronic Priesthood and MIA and Sunday School and all the rest; it will be correlated.

Recently, two letters were sent out, one from President Kimball to the Regional Representatives in a sense asking you to cease and desist on preparing your own system of reports to gather information. I think it was that letter that caused the reaction. In fact, President Lee quoted that entire letter. That interested me that he was following the thing he was applauding with that simple sentence, "Dear Brethren, Your recent letter on reports will bring a shout from Dan to Beersheba. Sincerely," and then signed. We are asking you to report it.

You will have the same instrument that we as General Authorities have -- that one-page accumulation of the basic information -- for your use. Then, of course, as you go into your stakes you can have that information that is there locally, both in the stake and, if you call for it, in the ward. So, you should have sufficient information.

There was, likewise, a letter sent out recently from the First Presidency, addressed to all General Authorities, Department Heads, Auxiliary Heads, etc., in the which is called attention to this new reporting system, and there was a very terse sentence that said, "Absolutely no reports of any kind whatsoever," let me repeat that, "Absolutely no reports of any kind whatsoever will be prepared and distributed and sent out without going through," as the letter explained, "the committee that has to do with correlated reports." There will be the need on occasion for some special reports, and of course, they can be accommodated.

Now, one word with reference to the in-house reports. We know that some of the auxiliary organizations must have a special report. For instance, the Relief Society on such a matter as the garment manufacturing, distribution, etc. But we see no reason for any of the organizations at all to have any activity reports coming up through their channels other than these basic reports coming through the priesthood channel.

The question is, will you be able to have all the information you need? My son the other day said he wanted to bring home a little item about the size of the end of a pencil. He is working in an engineering course, and he wanted to bring it home to look at it under his brother's microscope. He wanted to see the circuit it was operating. Just a little tiny electronic instrument no bigger than the end of a pencil. Two or three of them replace the equipment that formerly has taken an entire room. I think you have seen these little calculators that you can hold in one hand. That means that you can buy some calculators half as big as this room now for $100 or $200 because we are learning to do better with something smaller. And that is the principle, I guess, which these reports are organized. So, we plead with you to sustain and support this. It will have the usual trauma in getting it introduced, but the savings are monumental -- in money, adequate; in time, millions of hours of faithful work by our clerks and our members of the Church; we must redeem them from that burden. So, we commend to you this simplified report, and in conclusion, pray that something of the same might ultimately be accomplished with our programs. I think, in view of what President Lee said, that is our responsibility, all of us in leadership positions, to work to that end.

Have presented the "Gospel of Work" program in the stake and feel this will help.

We have changed 2 blocks in this report which has had the affect on these tables due to the fact it has taken a lot of time to reorganize the tables. We feel we have an outstanding mission presidency and are continuing to improve methods.

We have called three new High Priest Groups to help us give the program more enthusiasm and also make the High Council conscious of our problems.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR WARD RECORD OF MEMBERS AND CHILDREN

These instructions should be carefully read and placed in the front of the membership binder replacing those previously issued. In the interest of uniformity and legibility, it is recommended that membership cards be typewritten. Black type is preferable.

WHITE CARD, GREEN CARD

1. The Ward Record of Members consists of a white card 5" x 3½", Form MD-10, complete with statistical data. For every member residing in the Ward, including children. A green 3" x 5½" card, Form MD-11, with identical information, is to be typed and sent to the Office of the Presiding Bishopric, to form a master index in all church members. The record is self-indexing, so cards should be placed by surname under the proper letter of the alphabet. Family units, father, mother, and children should be kept together, providing surnames are the same. In listing married women, enter the married names as the surnames.

2. On the front side of the card the name of the husband or wife is required. Enter the name of the present husband or wife if either party has been previously married. Enter names of all children. Any children who have been legally adopted and/or sealed should also be included.

3. If the husband or wife has been previously married, list in the two lines on the reverse side of the card. "Former Husband or Wife" and "Date of Marriage."

4. Do not use carbon when making up green, white or pink cards. All copies should be originals.

5. Type on the reverse side of all cards the ward and stake name in space provided at top of cards.

CONVERTS BAPTIZED AND CHILDREN BLESSED:

6. White and green cards are to be prepared for each child blessed and for each convert baptized. This does not apply to the baptism of children previously blessed for whom cards were provided at the time of blessing. However, if a white card cannot be found in the ward for a newly baptized child previously blessed, white and green cards should be made up. The white card will be inserted in the ward record in its proper alphabetical order and the green card sent to the Office of the Presiding Bishopric, to be placed in the master file.

BAPTISMS AND CONFIRMATIONS:

7. Record must be made on the white membership record and in Form E for all baptisms and confirmations performed in the ward. If there is no membership record, new white and green membership cards must be made up.

UNBLESSED CHILDREN:

8. If a child is born to parents (both of whom are members of the Church) and the child is not blessed, the birth should be recorded in Form E, and white and green membership records made up. In the blessing column enter the words "not blessed." If only one parent is a member, and the child is not blessed, the birth should not be recorded unless permission is given by the non-member parent. In all cases children born to members are to be listed on the membership record of the parent.

BLESSING CHILDREN OF CONVERT PARENTS:

9. Children up to and including the age of seven whose parents are converted and baptized may be blessed or not at the option of the parents, but in either event membership record cards should be made out for them and entry made in Form E under births. In instances where such children are not blessed a notation should be made in the "Blessing" column "Parents new converts—not blessed."

DUPLICATE PINK MEMBERSHIP RECORDS FOR ITINERANT CHURCH MEMBERS:

PERMANENT RESIDENCE:

10. Permanent residence is the determining factor in placing the membership records of all church members to the various wards and branches. These records are to remain in the wards and branches which, under all the circumstances, are nearest to qualifying as the permanent residence or the home ward or branch of those concerned.

AWAY FROM HOME MORE THAN A SIX MONTH PERIOD:

11. Included among those away from home for whom duplicate pink membership records should be made out are the following: Servicemen, students (including those attending college wards), persons in the diplomatic service in foreign countries, persons engaged in temporary employment away from home, those connected with educational institutions in foreign lands; members of the families of all of those who accompany them; and boys and girls who leave home to secure employment in city or other areas. This does not include regular full time missionaries.

CAREER SERVICE MEN:

12. In the case of career servicemen whose circumstances are such that they cannot reasonably be said to have a home ward/branch, it will not be necessary to make out a duplicate pink membership record. Instead, the regular white membership record form will follow them from one location to another.

MAILING OF PINK MEMBERSHIP CARDS:

13. Home wards should make out the duplicate pink membership record form in the first instance and send it to the new location through the Office of the Presiding Bishopric. When those for whom the duplicate pink records have been made move to new locations, the pink forms should be sent to the new wards or branches through the Office of the Presiding Bishopric. For servicemen an APO or FPO address is not sufficient to justify sending these forms for transmission to new locations. Unless and until an address is obtained from relatives or others which will show the actual landbased location of those concerned, such membership records must be retained in the home ward.

RESPONSIBILITY OF MEMBERS TEMPORARILY LOCATED:

14. Bishops or branch presidents in stake or mission areas where church members are temporarily located and where the duplicate membership records are, assume full responsibility for the spiritual well-being of such persons as fully and completely as if the original record of membership was in that ward or branch. This includes accounting for these persons in all church statistics attending to priesthood ordinances, issuing of temple recommend, receiving tithing and all other contributions, and supervising all priesthood and auxiliary church services in general. Remembering, of course, that a temple recommend would not be issued until the person had lived in the branch for a year or more, without contacting the Bishop of the ward or President of the branch who holds the white membership record. Home wards or branches are free from statistical accountability for those members whose duplicate pink membership records have been sent out.

WHEN MEMBERS TEMPORARILY LOCATED:

15. When a duplicate pink record has been sent out by the home ward or branch, the white record is to be placed in the back of the binder in section provided. When that person returns home from service, etc., the pink record is to be requested by the home ward or branch. When pink record is received back in the home ward or branch, the white record is to be replaced in front of binder after being brought up-to-date. The pink copy may then be destroyed.

FOLLOWING CARDS OF PINK MEMBERSHIP CARDS:

16. Duplicate pink membership records should not be made out for church members, such as business executives, who travel extensively and who stay in one location for only a few weeks or months. Such persons, as well as all those who will be away from home for less than six months, should carry with them one of the regular fellowship cards supplied through the Office of the Presiding Bishopric. These cards are issued in appropriate cases on a 3-month basis and constitute the home Bishop's or Branch President's certification that the recipient is worthy to participate in and receive the blessings of the various programs of the Church. These cards (Form WD-6) may be renewed every three months and shall constitute authorization to use such persons in ward/branch or stake/mission work.
PERSONAL HISTORICAL INFORMATION:

17. All information relating to ordinations in the priesthood, patriarchal blessings, baptisms and confirmations, endowments, marriages, sealings, missions, divorces and excommunications, should be entered currently on the ward cards and in Form E where indicated. The master record at the Office of the Presiding Bishopric will be brought up to date at regular periods from the information submitted in Form E, so the necessity for great care in accurately entering all information in this report is absolutely essential.

MEMBERSHIP STATISTICS WORK SHEET:

18. The Membership Statistics Work Sheet, Form FB-93, is to be used in maintaining a current record of any and all changes in ward or branch membership. If the name is accurately and properly kept up to date, it will be possible at any time, to ascertain the exact number and breakdown of the ward or branch membership. An entry should be made for each change in membership status—arrivals, after memberships have been sustained; removals, when records are forwarded; blessings, baptisms, confirmations, ordinations, marriages, divorces, deaths, setting apart, etc. In each case record will first be made in the minutes, then entered in the work sheet, noting the page of the minute book from which the entry was taken. Follow each line to the right hand page and make appropriate entries—a vertical mark for an addition or new status, a vertical mark with a circle around it for a deduction or old status. The "Posted/Completed" section is very important to assure accuracy in making all necessary postings or certificates. If you need make an entry in Form E, the actual date you make the entry is to be posted in the column headed "Form E." If a certificate must be made out, the date this is done is to be entered under the heading "Certificate," and so on for each check column. If the action is an ordination from Teacher to Priest (for instance), it would affect Historical Record, Form E, Membership Record, Certificate, and Priesthood. Dates would be entered in each of these columns when that particular item had been completed. Where no action is necessary (in this case Family Reunion and Birth Date List) make a short dash (-) in the space to indicate you have not overlooked it. When a child of record is baptized, a deduction is to be made from the "Children" column and an addition entered in the "Members" column. Deductions and additions in equal number, must also be made when ordinations to and in the Priesthood are properly posted. This same procedure will also apply when Aaronic Priesthood members are transferred from the "under 21" to the "over 21" columns. When a member of record reaches 21 and is still not baptized, his record is to be sent to the Office of the Presiding Bishopric with the notation of over 21, not baptized. You would then deduct the count from the column of not baptized. If preferred, deductions may be indicated in red or other colored pencil. If the work sheet is carefully kept during the year the total of the detailed breakdown of membership on December 31st should agree with actual count of the membership.

WHEN INDIVIDUALS MOVE FROM WARD:

19. When a person, or family, leaves the ward, remove the card, or cards, from the Ward Record of Members, fill in the information required under the headings "Date Moved," "to Ward/Branch," "Stake/Mission," "Street and City address" on the reverse side. Care should be taken to write the specific information only in the space provided. For example, the street address should not be written under the "Ward/Branch" heading. Nor should the name of the ward or branch be written under the "Street and City address" heading. Make every attempt to get all the information possible. Write the information in pencil. Do not use ink or typewriter. Send to the Office of the Presiding Bishopric. DO NOT FOLD CARDS.

INDEX RECORD SHEETS:

20. Index record sheets should be maintained in the binder to list the names of those who have moved and whose records have been sent to the Office of the Presiding Bishopric, and the date of removal.

DEATHS:

21. When a member dies, enter the date, place, and cause of death in the space provided on the reverse side of the card, and also in Form E.

EXCOMMUNICATIONS:

22. For excommunications, write across the face of the card in red ink: "Excommunicated," also the date and cause. Send a copy of the minutes of the Court proceedings. In case of apostasy, send the person's written request to have name deleted from records, being sure to state cause of the apostasy. Children who are blessed only should not be reported under "Ex-communications." Cards of deceased and excommunicated persons are to be sent to the Office of the Presiding Bishopric when the required information has been inserted.

UNBAPTIZED CHILDREN OVER NINE YEARS
OF AGE:

23. The records of all children over nine years of age, who are not baptized should be given special attention. The Bishop will bring these names to the attention of the home teachers responsible and will instruct the teachers to make every effort to influence such persons to be baptized, and will have the home teachers continue their labors with these persons until the Bishop shall conclude that the teachers are not able to influence the persons to be baptized.
When the Bishop reaches this decision, he will formally report the names of the person or pers ons concerned to the State Mission President, in order that the missionaries may work with such persons and baptize them, if possible.

UNBAPTIZED CHILDREN BECOME 21 YEARS
OF AGE:

24. These records should be so held by the Bishop in the ward files until the person involved becomes age 21, at which time his decision whether or not he or she wishes to become a member of the Church could be considered final. Then, when the person becomes of age and the Bishop becomes convinc ed, in his own mind, that all has been done that can be done to secure the baptisms of such persons and baptism has been refused, then the card should be taken from the binder, and across the front in red ink, should be written:
"Canceled — of age and not baptized" and the date of such endorsement entered on the card.
The card should then be forwarded to the Office of the Presiding Bishopric.

These cards, when so endorsed and sent to the Office of the Presiding Bishopric, should be entered under statistics in Form E as "Pers ons becoming 21 not baptized." Such cards should be so forwarded at the close of each calendar year.

DIVISION OF WARD:

25. When a ward is divided, the membership cards of those transferred to the new ward are to be compiled in alphabetical order. A typewriten list of the same must be sent to the Office of the Presiding Bishopric so that the church master records may be updated. The ward cards may then be given directly to the Bishop of the new ward. A map showing the new boundary change should also be sent to the Office of the Presiding Bishopric.

26. Form E is the Transcript of Record of Members.

Be sure proper notations are made on all cards of deceased and excommunicated persons, as also persons whose record cards are cancelled before cards are forwarded to the Office of the Presiding Bishopric.

INSTRUCTIONS TO QUORUM OFFICERS

This report should be made up by the quorum presidency and secretary. It is designed to be of value to the quorum officers by bringing to their attention the activity of each member. When completed, this report should be carefully studied by the presidency of the quorum, and should guide them in their labors with the individual members of the quorum, so that each man will be encouraged to attain the highest possible efficiency in his important calling, and thus raise the general standard of the quorum. Moreover this report will form a part of the record of the Priesthood of the Church, and should, therefore, be very carefully compiled.

ANNUAL REPORTS

List the names of the presidency of the quorum first; then list the other quorum officers, and follow these with the names of the quorum members. List all names on record December 31, 1918.

When the report is complete, with the exception of the tithing items, it is to be sent to the Stake Clerk, who will fill in this information.

Missionaries in the field should be given credit in column “Other Church Duties,” under general heading “Absent on account of.”

WEEKLY CLASSES

You will notice the attendance at weekly priesthood classes is asked for. In the majority of the quorums of the Church there is a separate meeting of quorum and classes. Please obtain from the ward clerk information concerning the attendance of each member of the quorum at the regular weekly priesthood class held in the ward. When quorums meet weekly the attendance at the priesthood classes should be the same as the figures showing the attendance at quorum meetings.

In the column headed “Number of Possible Meetings,” enter the number of meetings held covering the time the individual has resided in the ward during the year, or since date of his ordination during the year.

Under the heading “Absent from Home,” should be included those engaged in Military Service or who are absent for any other reason.

The following rules should prevail in recording the active and inactive members of the Priesthood:

ACTIVE - In defining the activities of the members of the Church holding the Priesthood, a distinction should be made between those duties that are required of all members of the Church, such as attendance at sacrament meetings, payment of tithes and offerings, etc., and the duties of those who hold the Priesthood.

Activities are defined in the annual report under four groups: Missionaries, officers and instructors in quorums and classes, those performing stake and ward duties, including active officers and instructors in auxiliary organizations. In applying the rule concerning activity in the Priesthood it should be understood that it will apply to any calling of the Priesthood. A High Priest may be acting as a Teacher or a Seventy as a Priest or Deacon.

INACTIVE - As to inactivity, it applies to those who are unable to perform duties or labors in the Priesthood on account of age, infirmity, sickness, occupation, absence from home for long periods, when not assigned to perform any duty or labor in the Priesthood by the stake or ward officers. And the final item, “Not willing to labor,” would indicate a person who has been requested to labor in some office or calling of the Priesthood, and who has declined or neglected to do so.

It should be the aim of the stake, quorum and ward officers to see that every person holding the Priesthood is actively engaged in some duty or calling. There is ample scope for every person who is willing to do something. The First Presidency has stated in the Annual Circular that “Every person qualified in the Priesthood should be given something to do. Then he will realize that Priesthood means service.”
The following rules should prevail concerning the enrollment in quorums and classes of all members of the stake holding the Priesthood:

INSTRUCTIONS OF THE FIRST PRESIDENCY, MAY 9, 1916

1st—Each quorum should have one roll only, and every person holding the Priesthood should be enrolled in the quorum having jurisdiction in the ward where his Church membership is recorded. The practice of keeping a supplemental or inactive roll is not approved.

2nd—Recommendations from one quorum to another are not required. The present arrangement for admitting members in the quorum is already published as follows:

"The certificate of ordination should be carefully preserved by the person ordained; and, whenever necessary, it should be presented to the proper authority as an evidence of his ordination. Upon this evidence he should be admitted to membership in the usual manner by the quorum having jurisdiction in the ward or stake where he resides, providing he has been accepted as a member of the ward. If he does not possess certificate of ordination, and the recommend upon which he is received in the ward names his Priesthood and ordination, it should be accepted as evidence that he holds that office, provided there is no evidence to the contrary, and provided he has been admitted as a member of the ward in full fellowship."

3rd—When a person holding the Priesthood removes from one ward to another and is accepted as a member of the ward into which he moves, it becomes the duty of the Ward Clerk to notify the president of the quorum of the arrival of this person. The new member should present his certificate of ordination as evidence that he holds the Priesthood, and upon that certificate he should be presented for admission to membership in the quorum to which members of that ward holding the same Priesthood belong. It is the duty of the Ward Clerk to report at the next ward weekly Priesthood meeting the arrival of any person holding the Priesthood, and every such newly arrived member should be enrolled in the proper class, whether he has attended a class meeting or not.

4th—When a member holding the Priesthood becomes a member of the ward, the proper quorum officer having jurisdiction should look after him and see that he becomes enrolled in the quorum.

5th—It is the duty of the secretary of a High Priests’ or Elders’ quorum to prepare certificates of ordination, and to have them signed by the proper officers, presented to the Ward Clerk to be entered upon the ward record, and then delivered to the persons in whose favor they are issued. Seventies’ quorums, however, do not issue certificates of ordination. They are issued by the First Council of Seventy. Therefore, Seventies’ quorums should not be provided with certificates. When a person is ordained to the office of Seventy by any other person than a member of the First Council, the proper quorum officers should immediately notify the First Council of Seventy, requesting a certificate of ordination to be mailed or delivered to the quorum officer, and after it has been entered on the quorum record it should be delivered to the person in whose favor it is issued.

6th—When a quorum withdraws its fellowship from one of its members, a report of the action of the quorum should be sent to the Bishop of the Ward.

FORMAL REPORTING SYSTEMS OF THE CHURCH OF
JESUS CHRIST OF LATTER-DAY
SAINTS, 1830-1975

Dennis H. Smith
Department of Church History and Doctrine
M.A. Degree, August 1975

ABSTRACT

Since its organization, the Church has kept records of its members and their Church activity. The foremost means of gathering this data has been printed report forms. This thesis traces the history of formal reports used by the Church and emphasizes information on membership and vital data as well as activity in Priesthood and auxiliary organizations. Financial reports of organizations and individual persons, as well as personalized confidential reports and minutes of meetings were not used. The thesis analyzes the type of information called for rather than the statistical figures themselves.

There have been four major shifts of emphasis in Church formal reporting systems. The earliest forms emphasized the number of ordinances performed and persons enrolled. Then around the turn of the Twentieth Century, the reports stressed attendance as well as the status of organizations. In the period around 1940, some annual and quarterly reports were replaced by monthly reports which zeroed in on individual wards and not just stake totals. The last shift came in the mid-1960's with the forms stressing the correlated activity of the individual Church member and not organization mechanics.
